

Secret Meetings Sneath, Fassler Over Portable JESD Buildings Connect?

How 18 portable classrooms were installed at a Daly City intermediate school in alleged violation of state regulations has been the subject of closed door meetings between trustees and administration of the Jefferson Elementary School District.

The secret sessions were held to discuss the location and installation of the classrooms at the Fernando Rivera School. Two trustees—Dorothy Adams and Beverly Forrester—indicated in a three-page letter to recently resigned Board Chairman William Schumacher that the portable classrooms had been erected without their full knowledge of details regarding purchase and had, in fact, been installed in direct violation of state codes.

The blame for the classroom situation as it now exists has been heaped on Roger Barthuli, associate superintendent in charge of business.

Trustees Forrester and Adams claim they were not aware the classrooms had not been obtained through a seven year lease-purchase agreement for some $16,196 per year—a total bid of $113,386.

"It had not been (our) understanding, prior to receiving a copy of (Superintendent Frank L.) Greenwood's letter, that we had leased these relocatable classrooms for a period of time in excess of three years," the trustees wrote.

Section 15352 of the State Education Code says that any building leased in excess of three years under a purchase agreement must be considered an lateration of school building.

But Barthuli said Tuesday he did not consider the portables to be "permanent" at their present location and that they could be moved to any area in the district.

"It hasn't been decided as yet where these classrooms will be needed," he said.

Didn't the fact that they were imbedded in concrete make their location permanent, Barthuli was asked?

"They can still be moved at the direction of the Board (of trustees)," he replied.

The classrooms were approved at a meeting of the Board on July 27, 1971. A motion was passed to accept a bid submitted by Speedspace for the needed classrooms.

"Each Board member was provided a blank copy of the agreement (with Speedspace) during the meeting," the two trustees noted. "(We) recall rendering a complaint to Mr. Barthuli regarding the fact that the contract was blank."

Trustees Adams and Forrester said they could not recall Barthuli informing them the agreement was for a lease-purchase of the structures.

On August 17, 1971 at a special meeting the Board approved a change order for Speedspace covering foundations and plumbing for the classrooms in the amount of $8,725. This increased the total by $1,417.

This change order was later questioned and Adams and Forrester instructed Superintendent Greenwood to obtain an opinion from the District Attorney's Office on the matter.

Greenwood, on Jan. 12, 1972, forwarded the trustees' letter.

JC Will Operate Within Tax Limit

Despite the new emergence of some adverse financing prospects, San Mateo Junior College District intends to operate within its present taxing capability "for a long time to come," Chancellor Clifford G. Erickson declared yesterday.

"We will simply have to re-double our own efforts to economize, and at the same time we certainly will also accelerate our drive for additional state support," he said.

Erickson noted that when district voters last year approved an 11-cent increase in the colleges' property tax limit, they were told there would be no further raise proposed for the foreseeable future.

"We plan to make good on that statement," he said.

The chancellor's comments came in the wake of a recent income projection which indicated the district probably will have less resources for running its three local community colleges during the next fiscal year than it is using this year.

The report cited as major contributing factors a slowdown both in enrollment growth and the rate of increase in district assessed valuation, a diminished carry-over balance expected in the budget and a new state law (extending adult status to persons 18-20 years old) which will cost the district an estimated $425,000 in lost income next year alone.

"One of our top-priority jobs, working with other community colleges throughout California, will be to get that law changed," Erickson said.

He explained that its present effect is to cut state support for many local students in the 18-20 age bracket and enable out-of-state students of the same ages to avoid payment of tuition fees.

Erickson said he personally urged Governor Reagan not to sign the legislation into law, as did many other junior college leaders. The governor, while replying that he had decided to approve the bill because of its many virtues, said he was aware of the educational financing impact and would support corrective future legislation.

DC Redevelop Agency Meet Swift, Quiet

The second meeting of the Daly City Redevelopment Agency was a change of pace from the agency's initial meeting of January 10 — it went smooth and fast.

The only objection registered during Monday's meeting of the agency's board concerned day-time sessions.

Daniel Nordquist, of 188 Santa Barbara Avenue, said he objected to such meetings on the grounds many working persons could not make them.

However, Bernard Lycett, chairman of the new agency and also mayor of Daly City, explained there were persons who could not make evening meetings for the same reason.

The next meeting of the agency will be held at the City Hall, January 31, starting at 5 p.m.

At that time, 25 persons will be selected from a group submitted for consideration for appointment to the Redevelopment Agency Advisory Committee.

The committee will serve without pay for a period of two years.

City Manager David Rowe, also Executive Director of the agency, said he expected the committee to advise the agency "on any and all matters related to the activities of the Redevelopment Agency."

Nordquist's group, called the Citizens to Save Old City, had previously objected to such a committee.

Nordquist said such committees had failed in the past. He suggested a Commission with full powers to regulate development be formed but the idea was turned down.

The dedication ceremonies will take place at the Sharp Park Road overlook. A luncheon will be held afterward.

McGuire and Hester were the contractors who worked under direction of both cities.

City Mgr. Gerald Minford last night recommended that the San Bruno Council accept construction and widening of the road, as completed according to specifications.

The project includes four-laning the road to Gypsy Hill Road, then improving the winding three-lane portion, where one lane is used for climbing trucks.

The dedication will be for a road that not only connects the two cities—but due to recent opening of the Westborough Road Extension to El Camino Real, constitutes a link connecting Pacifica to Bayshore.

South San Francisco has been included for a $5,000 allocation in the $190 million appropriation request submitted to Congress today by President Nixon to take care of California's water problems.

The total sum would go to the Bureau of Reclamation and Corps of Engineers.

If approved by Congress, the funds would become available in July. The $190 million would allow the two federal agencies to continue planning and building flood control, navigation, irrigation and other large and small water-related projects in California.

Area's Political Races Shape

(Related News, Page 29)

With a week and a day to go before the filing deadline in the annual municipal elections more patterns are emerging.

However, political pundits predict the final week will draw out the late-comers and change the scene entirely.

Two persons have filed with the City Clerk's office in Daly City for the upcoming council race.

There are two seats open. Incumbent councilman Anthony (Tony) Giamonna, 159 Santa Paula Avenue; and William (Bill) Schumacher, attorney, 16 St. James Court, have filed necessary nomination papers with Clerk Anna Ohlendorf.

Mrs. Anna Ohlendorf has also filed for the re-election to the post she has held for the past nine years. She is presently unchallenged.

Anthony Zidich, 131 South Mayfair Avenue, filed last week for re-election to the City Treasurer's post.

None of the incumbents in the Colma City elections, in which three seats are up for grabs, has to date filed.

The three incumbents are Wallace H. Honeywell; Glen E. Duncan and Earl H. Taylor.

Challenger Eugene Daneluz, a businessman, 40, married and father of three children, has filed for the council.

Baneluz has lived in Colma for the past ten years and said upon filing, "I want to return good government to the people."

"If elected I will be a true representative of the people," the candidate said.

In the Jefferson Elementary School District election, which will be coordinated with the municipal elections, only one candidate has filed to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of William Schumacher from the Board of Trustees.

Schumacher left the board recently to seek election to the city council.

Mrs. Ruth Galindo, a housewife, of 23 Westline Drive, has filed with the county election headquarters for the post.

Brisbane has two council seats open.

Incumbents Jess C. Salmon and Dr. S. J. Guardino have not filed to date.

L. T. Clark, locomotive engineer of 163 Visitation Avenue, filed necessary papers with the city clerk. He was a candidate in the municipal elections two years ago.

Also filing in Brisbane was Thomas A. Bayne, administrator.

SF Sheriff Asks More Money To Improve Jail Near Bruno

By FRANK LAPIERRE

SHERIFF HONGISTO ... Asks More Money

San Francisco Sheriff Richard Hongisto has asked for more money to improve conditions at the San Bruno jail.

He recently denounced conditions there as being unsanitary and unfit for the confinement of people.

Former Sheriff Matthew Carberry, the recipient of much praise from last year's San Francisco Grand Jury for his administration of that city's jails, had also asked the Board of Supervisors for more funds to improve similar conditions.

Carberry was continually turned down.

But the new sheriff has made a public case out of conditions at San Francisco's two jails by inviting the San Francisco press and television along on his nighttime jaunts.

Local media, which first brought these conditions into focus several years ago after listening to numerous complaints from San Bruno and Pacifica residents, have not been invited to accompany Sheriff Hongisto's tour groups to date.

Hongisto's budget totals $4.9 million for the 1972-1973 fiscal year starting July 1. This is an increase of $1.25 million over the previous year's request.

The asked-for monies would improve food, medical care and sanitary conditions at both facilities — all recent targets of Hongisto.

Security at San Francisco's courtrooms would also be improved, according to the sheriff.

Over-all, the budget is only $200,000 more than Carberry had requested.

The 1971 Grand Jury committee report, chaired by businessman Jack Friedman, pointed up the fact that despite continual refusal on the part of Mayor Joseph Alioto and the Board of Supervisors, the food was healthy and sufficient and there have never been any internal riots at either of the facilities.

Little thought was given to the prison by San Mateo County officials until the escape of two inmates and the subsequent killing of a retired Pacifica sea captain three years ago.

Following this incident, then-sheriff Carberry in the San Bruno facilities came in for stiff criticism. Threats were made to close the jail down, unless immediate action were taken to tighten security.

Hongisto's new undersheriff Rueben Greenberg said 67 new jobs—the same number as Carberry had requested last year but never got have also been requested in the new budget.

Included in these new positions are 15 additional deputy sheriffs for the jail; 16 more deputies assigned to courtroom security; six prison nurses; three rehabilitation officers to work with prisoners, and two training officers.

In some cases state and federal funds will be requested as a move toward easing the state burden on San Francisco's property owners, Greenberg said. Such funds will be used for other programs at the jail.

The new sheriff asks for more than double last year's $14,000 (to $30,000) for "general sanitary maintenance." Replacement of mattresses will cost more than $25,000 according to the new budget proposal. A request for a supplemental budget of some $120,000 to feed inmates, during April, May and June has been submitted, it was learned. This will supply enough food to hold the jail until regular budget monies are received.

$263 Million Estimated

Price of County Joining BART

San Mateo County could become a full-fledged member of a regional rapid transit system along with three other Bay Area counties for an estimated $263 million, a board studying the issue has been told.

And this figure would include an extension of the Bay Area Rapid Transit (BART) system from Daly City, through International Airport to Menlo Park.

This was the conclusion of a draft summary on the San Francisco Airport Access Project (SFAAP) presented to that agency's Board of Control last week.

Using a complicated "cost share" system, project director Larry Dahms, pointed out that San Mateo County would, by an as-yet undetermined method, assume roughly 21 per cent of the system's total bonded indebtedness, including any transit extension into the county.

"Thus, for an investment on the order of $241 million the county could acquire the initial airport extension worth $384 million, while linking to the rest of BART's 75 mile system," the summary noted.

For a full extension from Daly City to Menlo Park, San Mateo would come up with $263 million "for some $700 million worth of intra-county transit and its membership in the regional network."

But current dissent on BART's own board of directors toward participating in any extension of the system outside of the three original counties—Contra Costa, San Francisco and Alameda—has been rife.

These counties might be "sold" on the San Mateo extension because of needed matching federal funds that would be generated by San Mateo joining the group.

An unusual factor in the cost figures centers around the fact that estimates for construction of the line to International Airport—including a station and maintenance yard south of the airport—will cost $241 million. For some $22 million more the line to Menlo Park can be built.

The Daly City-to-airport link has been studied and, except for a few minor changes, could be presented to San Mateo voters within a few weeks.

However, County Supervisor James V. Fitzgerald said he could not "politically or morally go for a plan that goes only to the airport."

He asked how countywide voters could be sold on a partial system. And he advised that a total plan over the entire length of San Mateo County be mapped out before asking the people to cast their votes.

Daly City Councilman Frank Pacelli, also a director on the board, agreed, noting the situation "is a classic example of engineers versus politicians" as it now stands.

It was pointed out that while Burlingame has come out strongly against a maintenance yard at its doorstep, Millbrae is on the fence and might also reject any proposal unless it was presented right.

"We cannot assume that Millbrae and Burlingame have agreed on this (station and yard)," Pacelli warned.

Dahms said first phase studies were "complete in the engineering sense but not in the political sense" regarding the line.

Although it would be feasible to operate a West Bay line without benefit of a maintenance or turnaround yard in the vicinity of the airport "it would not be economical," Dahms said.

Dahms said without the maintenance facility the system here could not operate at peak performance.

"We must be careful not to over-compromise. If we do, we might be defeating the very purpose of the system," Dahms explained.

YSB Unrest in Pacifica

By BOB PETERSON

There is obviously unrest associated with the Pacifica Youth Service Bureau, but council members on Monday were at a loss to isolate exactly what it is.

The problem as far as the majority of the council was concerned had to do with just how much authority the city has under a joint powers agreement.

Several members wanted to meet in a personnel session to discuss the recent resignation of the coordinator of the bureau, but City Attorney John Sherman ruled against it.

"I have reservations about such a session," said Sherman. "This isn't the city's personnel. This man is not hired by Pacifica nor controlled by the city."

Councilman Harland Minshew made a motion to dissolve the agreement as far as the city of Pacifica is concerned. "If we can't get a report on what's happening,"

The motion died for lack of a second and Mayor Grace McCarthy said she was scheduled to meet with the Youth Service Bureau governing board later this week and would report back to the council.

Minshew remained upset, saying the bureau serves the city and the city contributes money and a facility. "We are part of it. We should know what's happening," he said.

Councilman Nick Gust attempted to qualify Minshew's position. "These are statements of one individual," said Gust. "I don't want headlines saying Pacifica is rejecting the Youth Service Bureau."

Youth Service Bureau Coordinator Mike Gannon, 26, resigned recently in the face of criticism that he has not attracted enough young people into the program at Pedro Point.

Gannon said he sympathized with the bureau's administrative problems but that he felt head counts were irrelevant when evaluating a program whose purpose is to head off delinquent behavior before it becomes a statistic.

Shrine Is Presented at Skyline

By WILL THOMAS

"Freedom, like health, needs nourishment." Justice Robert F. Kane of the First District Court of Appeals told a handful of county citizens at Sunday's presentation to Skyline College of 28 historical documents making up the Exchange Club's Freedom Shrine.

Kane in likening freedom to good health said, "Those who are blessed with it," he said, "often take it for granted and it is not until adverse symptoms appear that they appreciate what they had and frequently have lost for all time."

"Freedom cannot exist in the abstract. It is not self-sustaining. It must be fed and nourished . . . and it must be exercised," he said.

Copies of mostly handwritten documents ranging from the Mayflower compact of 1620, The Monroe Doctrine, and the Star Spangled Banner, to McAuliffe's "Nuts" message in World War II and the instrument of surrender in the Pacific climaxing World War II in 1945 are included in the Shrine.

They will be housed in the junior college's only temporary structure, a portable unit housing the library.

The display, with each document mounted on wood, will be transferred to a permanent location in the college's new student center library, to be started soon.

Dedication of Entry Road Is Due February 11

Dedication of the new Sharp Park Road and Skyline College North Entry Road, built under joint direction of the Pacifica and San Bruno city councils, is being planned for Feb. 11 at 11:30 a.m.

Millbrae Plans Super Budget

A "super budget" for Millbrae, outlining spending plans for the next six years, was publicly disclosed Monday for the first time.

Only a handful of citizens heard City Administrator Richard Watson describe his "sophisticated" $13,591,375 capital improvements budget, which proposes 61 separate projects ranging from swimming pools to sewer outfall lines.

Mayor James O'Connor last week invited anyone with an interest in the city's future to attend Monday's session to hear plans "that will effect the future of Millbrae for 20 years."

When Planning Commission Chairman Joseph Galante turned the meeting over to Watson, however, there were only ten people in the audience, including three reporters.

Watson said he had set aside four of the larger projects for financing by bond issues so that the citizens of Millbrae can make the decision whether these are needed or wanted.

These projects include a $125,876 storm drain project, a $350,000 railroad underpass at Hillcrest Avenue, a $3,100,000 "second access" to Bayshore, and a $509,706 city swimming pool.

"The voters should decide the merit, and need," of these projects, Watson said.

His plan for city spending must be approved by the City Council, and projects included must be individually reviewed by the planning commissioners, and others.

Watson described his spending plan with the help of slide films which show things as they are now, drainage ditches full of stagnant water, park sites littered with leaves, storm sewers overflowing into gutters, and broken sidewalks.

He said the money to finance most of the projects would come from half-a-dozen "major" city funds.

If all the projects are approved, he said, a deficit situation will develop in fiscal year 1974-75, and a tax rate increase might become necessary.

Some of the projects are contradictory, he said. A $210,000 widening plan for Millbrae Avenue, for instance, might eliminate the need for a $1,500,000 Millbrae Avenue overpass, which is also suggested.

Watson said he would recommend to the city council that it change the traditional formula for saving hotel-motel tax money. Since this tax was instituted several years ago, 75 per cent of the money collected has gone into a fund to finance a "second access" to Bayshore Freeway.

Now, says Watson, the voters ought to decide whether a second access is actually desired. Instead of saving the hotel-motel funds for such a use, he says, that money could be funneled into park development, which would provide a more immediate enjoyment for more citizens.

The administrator said Millbrae will be in a very good position to obtain bond issues during the next few years because existing funds are nearly paid off and the city has only issued bonds to six or seven per cent of its capacity.

His capital improvements budget includes every "justified" expenditure for objectives which cost more than $3,000, and which last more than 10 years, Watson said. Included are many small projects such as microfilming city records, re-codifying city lawbooks, and limited area drainage improvements.

Largest project on the list is a $4,200,000 deepwater sewerage outfall line to be built in consort with Burlingame, San Bruno, and South San Francisco. Millbrae's share, Watson said, would be about $250,000.

Watson also predicts spending $150,000 on a city corporation yard, $114,415 on Central Park development, $55,852 on Mills Estate Park, $37,766 on Millbrae Meadows Park, $776,000 on developing the Millbrae Spur property into parks, and $54,000 on tennis courts.

He said $300,000 should be spent on replacing water lines within the next six years, and $225,000 should be set aside for new water storage tanks.

Street maintenance work would cost $240,000, he said, and Millbrae Avenue widening would cost about $210,000. A remodeled Millbrae Avenue overpass would cost $250,000.

Extension of Rollins Road northward toward San Francisco Airport property, Watson said, would cost about $700,000. This would be necessary to allow development of Millbrae land east of Southern Pacific railroad.

Watson told the planners that he realized many of the projects included in his plan must await approval in the master plan which the planning commission is preparing to devise.

"We can't wait any longer in starting at least the procedures," he said.

Many of the smaller capital improvement projects would be fitted into the 1972-73 budget, which must be prepared within the next few months. Others would be scheduled for following fiscal years.

The capital improvements plan is Millbrae's first, he said, and results from three years of thought and six months of intensive work.

Its importance, he said, is that the plan will give the city leaders a means of forecasting their budgetary needs beyond a single fiscal year.

Some larger projects which have been talked about in the city for several years, he said, are not included because they could not be justified.

N. Hwy. 380 Citizens' Committee

San Bruno City Council on Monday night refused to consider a request to appoint a citizens' committee to study the Highway 380 extension.

One councilman did take up a challenge to tell exactly where he stood on the 380 issue.

The request was made by Orville Wykoff of 2971 Trenton Drive. He asked that the citizens' committee be created to review all the alternatives to 380 and the studies that led to their rejection.

The request was met by silence for a moment, then Councilman Tony Governale moved that, "We take this matter under submission and rule upon it at our next meeting."

Another moment of silence then Mayor Maurice Hamilton ruled the motion dead for lack of a second.

It was Ed Nierenberg of 2510 Crestmoor Drive who urged the councilmen to put themselves on record as to how they stood on the 380 extension.

"Is it your position that 380 is a 'fait accompli'?" he asked. He claimed that since it was a moral issue, the councilmen owed it to the public to tell their stands.

Councilman George Corey took up the challenge. "I think it is a very important issue," Corey replied. "It is not a moral issue, but a political issue. What I see is a freeway that was planned before we became aware of the environmental issues."

He said that the city's freeway contract covered two major phases, the interstate sector from the airport to Bayshore to 280, and the future sector which would serve Pacifica.

"This contract appeared to be not only legal but morally binding," Corey said. "You just don't accept the benefits and keep out the parts not so beneficial to you. It is all part of a package. We are trying to get a road through which will cause the least detriment to the environment."

He denied charges that the council was pushing for an eight-lane freeway.

"The council long ago went on record as backing a road with four paved lanes," he said.

As a final concession, Corey said, the Division of Highways is now studying a tunnel through Sweeney Ridge so as to avoid the giant cut that it is feared may change weather conditions in the area, particularly in admitting a passage for fog from the ocean.

He did not mean, he added, that groups fighting the freeway should stop fighting the freeway.

"Some of my best friends are fighting the freeway," he said. "I don't like it. I wish I could jump over to the other side, it would help me politically," he said. When asked if he spoke for the council, Corey replied that he could never speak for anyone but himself.

Nierenberg demanded that Hamilton tell his position. The mayor coldly told him that the council had made its position clear when it signed the freeway agreements.

Meanwhile, Leonard Sarkon, school trustee and also a council candidate, asked about the council's plan to hold a meeting to review the final environmental report before it is sent on to Washington.

He was told the council has already made plans to do so.

Future Item

A remark by Pacifica Councilman Stan Farber in this election season perked up some ears at that city's Monday night council meeting.

Farber suggested that a future item for the council agenda "for discussion" should be whether councilmen should represent specific districts of the city, although not necessarily elected from that district.

More About Portables in JESD

ter along with other pertinent data to District Attorney Keith Sorenson.

There has been no opinion forthcoming to date on the issue.

And there is still no plumbing—no water—in those rooms used for art classes. Students must wash themselves and their art tools in an adjacent facility.

Likewise, a master power shutoff switch for the machine shop is behind a wall in another classroom.

It was pointed out, however, that each machine used by students in the "shop class" has its own power switch.

The hubbub created by the two trustees over the matter centers more around alleged methods employed in erecting the classrooms—not whether they are needed.

For example, both trustees agree all 22 portables at the Fernando Rivera School are needed.

At the same time they cite several codes that allegedly have been broken in the installation of 18 of these rooms.

Title 21 of the Administrative Code states that relocatable (portables) must be ten feet away from school boundary lines.

The 18 portables at Fernando Rivera are only five feet.

And Title 21 requires that a classroom measuring greater than that of a "regular" classroom must have two doors.

Those at Fernando Rivera have only one door per room.

Barthuli said the matter is a "misunderstanding" that can be cleared up without too much difficulty.

Crestmoor Park Permits Protested

A delegation of Crestmoor Park residents appeared at the Monday meeting of the San Bruno City Council to protest plans for a 7-11 Market and a liquor store on the corner of Crestmoor Drive and San Bruno Avenue, near the Junipero Serra on-ramp.

The San Bruno Planning Commission last week had approved architectural plans for the mini-shopping center, to be built by Bob Berryman, one of the heirs of the old Consolidated Lands Corp. which developed Crestmoor.

"We realize that there is no zoning recourse," Larry Mobley, 2240 Crestmoor Dr., told the councilmen, noting that the site had the correct commercial zoning for the shopping center, and that no variances for the project were required, thus the matter did not even come before the city council.

"Our main concern," Mobley added, "is that the Traffic Safety Council was not consulted."

He explained that the driveway to the center, on Crestmoor Drive, was very close to San Bruno Avenue, and that the intersection is now a blind corner.

Mayor Maurice K. Hamilton replied that "I am not sure that the Planning Commission had the power to delay the project."

Gerald Minford reported that the Planning Commission had determined that the entrance to the shopping center would be 100 feet from the corner, and that moving it farther from the corner would increase the hazard (because of difference in grade).

At this point, three people stood up in the audience.

"We measured it," one man yelled out, "and it came to no more than 25 feet."

Councilman George Corey moved that "we ask the Traffic Safety Council to check it over."

Councilman Neil Christal added that Berryman should be requested to hold up construction until the TSC checks out the traffic situation. The body will meet Wednesday, Feb. 2.

The question of zoning, however, was not really settled.

Robert Peters, 2110 Crestmoor Dr.—two doors away from the property in question—questioned the zoning. The lot that had been zoned commercial, he insisted, was not the same lot that was being developed for a shopping center. The rerouting of San Bruno Avenue into a tunnel under Junipero Serra had created a new lot, twice the size of the old one, and with a very different terrain. The old lot was level and suitable for commercial use, while this one was quite steep, with a very bad access.

He also attacked the idea of a 7-11 Market with "odd" hours, which apparently were not limited by the Planning Commission.

"We're thinking of the 7-11 crowd, with their motorcycles and their slurpies," Ed Nierenberg of 2510 Crestmoor Dr. declared that "it is hard to live on Crestmoor Drive without feeling a bit paranoid. They're going to get us one way or the other... if it isn't in the bottom of the canyon it's in the bottom of the hill."

Return of District's Funds OK'd

In a rare move, Pacifica council members Monday authorized a return of $72,484 in assessment district monies because cost of the projects was less than anticipated.

The refunds were from projects on Gypsy Hill, Sharp Park, Farallon Avenue and Palmetto Avenue. The total excess funds for these projects came to $85,974 of which $13,500 was retained by the city on the advice of City Attorney John Sherman "to allow completion of certain legal matters."

The retained monies included $7,000 on the Farallon project and $6,500 on the Palmetto Avenue project. Projects and total overages were: Gypsy Hill, $18,115; Sharp Park, $9,529; Farallon Avenue, $42,970 and Palmetto Avenue, $15,370.

According to a memo from City Manager Jim Swayne, had the city not chosen to make refunds, the money could have been utilized for maintenance of the improvements, or after a period of time transferred to the general fund.

Councilman Nick Gust, owner of one of the pieces of property, did not participate in the voting.

More About Area Political Races

tive assistant with the AAA, and a resident of 312 San Bruno Avenue.

As of press time yesterday, the race for the two open seats on the Pacifica City Council had eight aspirants, with only two of them actually filing their papers.

Up for re-election in that city are council members Grace McCarthy and Dan Modena. Mrs. McCarthy has taken out nomination papers. At this point, however, she has not filed.

Modena, who has given no indication whether he will, or will not run, has yet to take out the nomination papers to succeed himself.

Candidate Virginia Jaeger was the first to take out nomination papers, the first day they were available. She filed them the next day, and has already launched her campaign for a seat on the council.

One other official candidate, by way of the fact he also has filed, is Vincent Lampedecchio, here-to-for inactive in Pacifica politics.

Others with papers out are Raymond Karczewski, security officer; Fred Howard, chairman of the Parks Beach and Recreation Commission; James Treanor, educational researcher; and William K. White and Dr. Anthony S. Dintcho, both relative unknowns to Pacific politics.

Such is the case in Pacifica, a lot of potential candidates for two available seats, giving the edge to the incumbents.

Meanwhile in South San Francisco one definite battle is shaping up. It is for the city treasurer's slot, previously only contested one other time in the history of the office.

Challenger Hal Schuette, a banker, was the first to file his nomination papers in that city. He is challenging incumbent John Bonalanza, recently under fire because of investment policies. Bonalanza also has filed.

Another office, that of city clerk, is at this point uncontested. Incumbent Arthur Rodandi has filed for re-election. He is not expected to be challenged.

The council race in that city is for three seats. So far no one has filed, but the three incumbents have taken out nomination papers, along with only two challengers.

Seats open are those held by Councilmen Frank Bertucelli, Frank Mammini and Warren Steinkamp. The challengers are Gordon Boblitt and Terry Mirri, both high vote getters in the last council election.

It appears the many candidates that normally rush to the race in South San Francisco are sitting back waiting to see what the other person is going to do.

Some political factions are hoping the number of candidates stay down, allowing for a tight race.

A total of six now appear to be running for San Bruno City Council in the election. Filing deadline is February 3, noon.

Two have now filed their nomination papers—School Trustee Leonard Sarkon and a student described at press time as "youthful," Gary Mondfrans, 713 Pepper Drive.

Others who have taken out papers but not filed them yet are Orville Wykoff, Doris Christensen and Daniel Comorato, plus one new man, Ruben Avelar, 231 Emerson Drive, active in the county's Economic Opportunities Commission.

Nicad Cell Now Used in Hearing Aids

A hearing aid that uses a nicad-cell has been developed which eliminates the necessity to purchase batteries.

The nickel cadmium power cell does away with background noises and hum in the amplifier. The automatic suppression circuit controls loud noises and helps understanding in noisy places.

The instrument is moderately priced and can be fit to most hearing losses using your doctor's prescription or our electronic analysis.

Land Swap Review Set in South S.F.

By BOB PETERSON

A controversial land swap between South San Francisco and that city's scavenger company will be studied in depth by an impartial third party.

Councilmen last week agreed to hire an attorney to research the property exchange that originated in 1962 but wasn't consummated until 1969. When his research is completed, councilmen promised, a special meeting will be called to hear the results.

The city has been under consistent fire by Citizens for Responsible Government. This city hall watchdog group contends that the city came out on the short end in the exchange. They say the city not only received less land, but that the land they gave away is more valuable than the land they received.

CRG President Robert Albright Monday night asked that the council take action to void the entire transaction or demand adequate compensation for the city based on new appraisals.

City Attorney John Noonan said there was no basis for action by the city. He said he favored hiring the outside investigator. "I think it's a good idea," he said. "This constant attack, which I think has its own purposes, gets the public confused."

Both Noonan and Albright gave extensive reports on the exchange. With Noonan's explanation, the city lost approximately $191.72. Albright's report, however, indicated the loss to the city was between $100,000 and $200,000.

Noonan contends that the original agreement was made in 1963 based on an appraisal made at that time which showed two parcels to be exchanged as being of equal value.

He said that in 1966 there was a description amendment of the two parcels after the scavengers requested a larger frontage on South Airport Boulevard. To meet this request land at the rear of the property was hortened and the width expanded.

Correction on Cab Story

The Post has received a letter from the attorneys for the Yellow Cab Company of San Francisco relevant portions of which are:

"In the issue of your newspaper distributed on January 12, 1972, you reprinted an article which appeared in The Times of San Mateo on January 7, 1972."

"Our clients object strongly to this article, considering it to be libelous in three particulars."

"The lead paragraph of the article in your publication on January 12, 1972, was as follows:

'San Mateo County is being taken for a ride by the Yellow Cab Company of San Francisco by not taking customers in the direction they want to go.'

"You may have been striving to say something else, but one sensible construction of the paragraph is that Yellow Cab Company takes customers in the direction they do not want to go, which would be and is criminal conduct, and therefore the statement, as we view it, is libelous per se."

"Webster's Dictionary states that the phrase, 'take for a ride,' means deception or victimization. There is no truth in an accusation that we are victimizing or deceiving San Mateo County. While we are anxious to and do serve citizens of San Mateo County, we have no contract, licensing or other arrangement with San Mateo County, and an accusation that we are taking the county 'for a ride' is absolutely unwarranted."

"Your bold lead paragraph, indicating that our client, in effect, detours passengers contrary to their wishes, without our spelling out the manifold impacts, affects our business seriously. The charge that we are deceiving or victimizing San Mateo County affects both credit and good will."

"The effect of the libel is heightened and the potential consequences made more formidable by what we consider to be further libelous statements. The article refers to Councilman Louis J. Papan of Daly City, and states:

'Papan gave a stinging appraisal of what type of operation the Yellow Cab Company was running at the airport, informing his fellow officials, "The problem is very serious."

"Whether or not Mr. Papan slandered Yellow Cab Company is a matter which we will have to explore with him, but your reportage in this fashion at this point in the article confirms the interpretation that our client is taking customers to places other than where they want to go and has thereby created a serious problem. Employment of the phrase, 'stinging appraisal,' bulwarks the earlier libelous charge and is virtually an assertion that Yellow Cab Company is operating improperly or unlawfully at the Airport, when such is not the case."

"At the latter part of the article, the next to last paragraph, we find this statement:

'Ironically, the Yellow Cab Company was considered to be a "pirate operation" prior to 1964. Councilman Glang told those attending Thursday's meeting in Daly City.'

"Again, whether Councilman Glang of Millbrae has slandered our client or not, is a matter with which we must confront him, but we consider your printing of this statement to be libelous per se. A 'pirate operation' in the taxicab business is one that acts unlawfully, often without permits of any sort, frequently without proper insurance, generally without rate regulation, and in defiance of legal authority. It may not be all of those things at once, but it is generally in one phase or another a completely improper operation."

"Yellow Cab Company has been operating with all proper authorities, permits, insurance, regulations, over a great period of years, and we consider this statement, as well as the other to which we have referred, to be libelous per se."

"Perhaps you intended to charge Yellow Cab Company with refusal to take passengers to San Mateo County points. We should like to point out that a survey of the waybills of the drivers (these are the records of the trips driven) shows that 38 per cent of the trips of Yellow Cab Company from the Airport are to destinations on the Peninsula."

The article mentioned in the foregoing letter reported the results of a study of taxicab operations at the San Francisco International Airport by a three-man subcommittee of North County Cities which investigated complaints that some drivers of the Yellow Cab Company of San Francisco were declining to accept passengers at the airport for short rides to nearby Peninsula cities after the drivers had waited in a long line of waiting cabs, because they favored long runs to San Francisco. The article also reported that the subcommittee investigated countercharges that so called "pirate cabs" were operating at the airport. The phrase "pirate cab" is a colloquial reference to a taxicab which is not franchised to pick up passengers at the airport. The reference in the article to Yellow Cab's status prior to 1964 related to the period when Barrett Transportation Company had the exclusive taxicab franchise at the airport and Yellow did not.

The sentences quoted in the foregoing letter are taken out of context and we believe that it would take considerable imagination and that it requires a distortion of the ordinary meaning of these sentences when considered in context, to arrive at the interpretation which the Yellow Cab attorneys have placed upon the quoted statements. However, to make it clear to our readers that such a meaning as that suggested by Yellow Cab attorneys was not intended we hereby correct all the statements quoted in the foregoing Yellow Cab letter and we wish to state that no such meaning as that suggested in the letter was intended. We wish to state also that when Yellow Cab drivers accept passengers at the airport they do, so far as we know, take them where they want to go; that the County of San Mateo has not been taken for a ride; that Yellow Cab has no contract, license or other arrangement with San Mateo County, and that the County has not been victimized or deceived by Yellow Cab; and that the Yellow Cab Company of San Francisco so far as we are aware acts lawfully, with appropriate permits where required, with proper insurance and in accordance with legal authority.

According to Noonan, to make sure there was no disparity the changed boundaries were figured on the basis of $1.50 a foot for the rear area and $2.50 a foot for that portion fronting South Airport Boulevard.

He also said in the computations, the city failed to take into consideration the cost of improving that land that was trad-

Pacifica Personnel Board Examined

Consensus of Pacifica's council and personnel commissioners in a joint meeting last week was that the integrity of the personnel board needs to be bolstered.

This was one of numerous items discussed. Others included meeting dates (which will be at the discretion of the commission), broadening of the commission's duties (which will remain the same) and recommendation of a position classification and merit plan study (which will be prepared).

5 Juveniles Arrested

San Bruno police culminated a two-month-long investigation into a series of local school burglaries with the arrest of five juveniles.

Police said all five suspects were students at the Parkside Junior High School in that city. Six burglaries in which a total of $750 in school equipment was stolen has been traced to the youths, police said.

Some $650 worth of the loot, including tape recorders, stereo equipment and general school supplies, was recovered at the time of arrest, police said.

The boys allegedly entered the school buildings at night or on the weekend.

Also explaining why fewer employees take their grievances to the personnel board, Swayne said, "If I can solve it before it comes to the personnel commission, I will."

Councilman Nick Gust admitted "we've all made it (the commission) weak. But the commission can be strong. Let's get involved. We all know there's plenty of work to be done in the city."

Council Expense Defended in SSF

By BOB PETERSON

A citizen's group checking into the method South San Francisco councilmen's expenses are allocated has prompted a protective move by that city body.

Councilman Warren Steinkamp last week suggested City Attorney John Noonan prepare a written legal opinion in defense of the way the expense account is handled "to preclude a class action suit."

Steinkamp was referring to a controversy over the present method of allocating expense money whereby four councilmen are given a flat $50 a month, and the mayor $75, as expense money.

Citizens for Responsible Government (CRG) contend such a system is wrong and sought a legal opinion from District Attorney Keith Sorenson.

Sorenson, in a letter dated December 30, 1971, with copies sent to the city, pointed out that he is without jurisdiction in such a situation.

"I have concluded that while the practice of paying flat predetermined amounts for expenses to city councilmen and the mayor may very well be subject to attack by a taxpayers' suit or otherwise, in the absence of evidence of criminal conduct this office should not take any action except to call it to the attention of the city council," said Sorenson's letter.

Noonan defended the practice, saying that it is done by various governmental agencies. He said $40 was for a monthly car allowance, however this is rule of thumb apparently not anywhere in writing.

Noonan said that $10 is for payment on mileage, parking fees, meals, etc. He did not explain why the mayor receives an additional $25.

Records at city hall show that the expense money is an automatic payment, along with the $200 a month salary, and when council members attend meetings the city manager withdraws monies to pay for attendance and meals.

Sorenson noted also that the government code "allows reimbursement only for expenses actually incurred." He added that there is no specific requirement for the filing of an itemized claim and there is no such requirement imposed by city ordinance, which seems to be the basis of the controversy.

THE UNITED METHODIST CHURCH of Daly City dedicated its church building and parsonage, a milestone in the life of the church made possible when two congregations — Seaclyff Community United Methodist and Wesley United Methodist — agreed to work together, first as a yoke-fellowship and then as a merged church. The merger was effected in 1971. Sale of the Seaclyff property made it possible to retire all mortgages on the remaining buildings. Pictured after event: Pastor James Current, Bishop Charles F. Golden of the San Francisco Area of United Methodist Churches, Dr. Robert D. Hill, superintendent of the Golden Gate District and the Rev. A Plan to Increase Pupil-Teacher Contact Urged in Oceana Report

By WILL THOMAS

Oceana High School has developed a plan for staffing which proponents say will generate a greater adult-student contact ratio.

Dr. Robert Watt, Oceana's principal and others on a study committee, call it Teacher Equivalent Ratio (TER), which purportedly would allow the increased contact with students and stay within prescribed district student-teacher ratios.

Watt presented the proposal to trustees in Daly City last week.

It brought immediate expressions of reservation from Board of Education President Albert Pucci and American Federation of Teachers' President Michael Moseness.

Each said they were concerned over the wisdom and legality of even a single school's faculty being altered without study and approval of the Certificated Employees Council.

Watt and administrators and some trustees said they could not see a need for CEC action on a one-school staffing change under voluntary "pilot program" conditions.

Solomon said he was quarreling over the CEC role. He wanted some definition of what amounts to lowering class size from the CEC, Solomon said.

While Pucci tended to follow Solomon's line of reasoning, Moseness was more critical. He said he believed class size ratios should not be reduced at the expense of teacher numbers or salaries.

The district should finance a program of interns and paraprofessionals separately, he said.

None of the dissenters disagreed on the point of intern-paraprofessional need.

Watt explained that "some" of the Oceana faculty already had expressed interest in the program.

It would assume that a full time teacher is equal to five teaching sections at an average salary of $10,500 and one teacher section would equal about $2,120, Dr. Watt said.

He cited a potential teacher-equivalent table:

One teacher section equals 1 intern and $500 of paraprofessional help (clerk, aide, etc.) or $2,120 paraprofessional help.

Two teacher sections equals two interns and $1,000 paraprofessional help or $4,000 paraprofessional help.

Five teacher sections equals two full time paraprofessionals or six interns and $1,000 paraprofessionals.

The proposal stated that the district provides some financial assistance to the schools in terms of paraprofessional help and two high schools participate with USF in an intern program.

"The TER program would allow staff members at Oceana to make certain decisions relating to the increase of the adult-student contact ratio whether it be with additional interns or adult paraprofessionals," Dr. Watt said.

"In either case," he added, "there would be more opportunity for a student to work with an adult on a one-to-one basis."

One department or the entire school could participate, Watt said.

"However, if only one department wished to be involved with TER the department could do so without changing the student-teacher class ratio in any other department."

Construction Lull

A lull in construction at San Francisco International Airport has resulted from two major changes requested in the multi-million dollar expansion.

For the first time since San Francisco's voters approved $98,000,000 worth of construction bonds in 1967, very little new building is under way.

Requests to modify the passenger terminal loading areas, and a decision to consider installing an underground station for the Bay Area Rapid Transit System, are the reasons.

While plans are being redrawn, little new work can be started.

Construction of the terminal area circular roadway is proceeding, and completion of a new upper level section of this structure has disclosed to airport customers that no work is being done on the North Terminal.

Foundation pilings have been in place for weeks, but engineers say nothing further can be done until the structure is re-designed to accommodate an underground BART tunnel and passenger station.

Meanwhile, plans to attach rectangular loading areas to the new terminal building, instead of circular "rotundas," are also being drawn.

"When originally planned," explained David Brown of United Air Lines, "we have no experience with the wide-bodied jets."

"With real-life experience, we found that they take up more room than had been expected."

"A study, financed by the airlines and now approved by all the airlines shows that a rectangular shape will be more efficient. All the airlines agreed on that. This new shape is more realistic."

The rectangular pattern may be considered for modifications being considered for the Central and South Terminals as well as for the North Terminal, one airport planner said.

But it is construction of the new North Terminal that is being held up, although agreements are expected on both subjects "within a few weeks."

Until now, construction has proceeded on a tightly scheduled calendar. Entrance roadways have been re-routed, two new service underpasses have been built, and the work is continuing on the passenger terminal roadway.

One major project remaining, is the central parking garage, which could be built before the North Terminal, if necessary.

"However, we don't need it until the North Terminal is built," one expert said.

SEOUL DUTY

U.S. ARMY, KOREA — Army Private Kevin L. Dalton, son of Mr. and Mrs. William L. Dalton, 469 Maple Avenue, San Bruno, recently was assigned to the 728th Military Police Battalion near Seoul.

Pvt. Dalton is a military policeman with the Battalion's headquarters detachment near Seoul.

He entered the Army in May 1971, completed basic training at Ft. Ord, and was last stationed at Ft. Gordon, Ga.

County Supervisorial Committees Formed

In making 1972 committee assignments for the County Board of Supervisors, Chairman Gerald F. Day gave himself a lion's share of the work.

His assignments total 15, compared with 14 for Mrs. Jean Fassler, 13 for James V. Fitzgerald, 11 for Robert St. Clair, and eight for William M. Werder, who has been ill and unable to work for some time.

Day said the assignments reflect a recent agreement among the board members to rotate jobs to give each of the supervisors first-hand knowledge of a wide range of government activities.

One result of that policy puts Day on the powerful Local Agency Formation Commission in place of Fitzgerald while the latter takes over Day's former assignments as liaison to the Housing Authority and as a member of the Stanford Mid-

Peninsula Urban Coalition Policy Committee. St. Clair joins the executive committee of the Regional Planning Committee, succeeding Day, and takes Day's place as alternate to Mrs. Fassler as a director of the Association of Bay Area Governments. Other assignments include: Day — County Supervisors Association of California, Greater Transportation Committee, Metropolitan Transportation Commission. County Transit Development. (Please See Page 10, Column 1)

Jeff Trustee Raps Grade Procedure

By WILL E. THOMAS

Students who sign up for, but drop out of Jefferson Union High School District's summer school receive "F's", but Trustee John Sloane doesn't like the idea.

Pacifican Sloane says the grade, on the student's records signifies an academic failure, and as such is "not indicative of what it actually is."

Sloane's objections to the "F" policy in regard to attendance, came during a report on summer school by Ralph Galloway, who is Thornton High School and summer school principal.

Galloway also pointed out that a symbol, "WF", is used on records to indicate that a student started summer school, but dropped out within the first ten days.

The "F" symbol is used for dropouts after ten days, he explained.

Neither symbol satisfies Sloane, who wants the district to find another symbol.

District Supt. Edward Morgan replied that most districts with summer schools used such symbols.

Sloane said he wasn't much concerned about other districts—only the JUHSD.

The "flunking" of drop-out students is a method to induce continued attendance throughout the summer session, school officials said.

Galloway reported a loss of $15,000 last year, and Morgan explained that San Francisco had dropped summer school because of costs and San Mateo and Sequoia districts are considering it.

Pre-registration for summer school showed an enrollment of 967 students, Galloway's report showed, but the first-day count was 641, 23 per cent fewer than anticipated.

Galloway had some recommendations to erase some of the deficit of the summer program.

Among them:

- Strict adherence to a 40-1 hiring ratio;
- Cancellation of any class in which the class size drops below 25;
- Consider closing of library facilities for the summer;
- Re-tool class brochures to reduce cost from $350;
- Change the 15-day driver education class to a regular safety education class of the same duration as any other summer school class.

Teglia to Award TN Diplomas

Albert Teglia, a Daly City member of the Jefferson Union High School District, will award diplomas at the February 3 Terra Nova High mid-term commencement exercises at 8 p.m.

Teglia volunteered for the role at this week's meeting of trustees, who also learned that Oceana High, also in Pacifica, would not be holding such rites. Instead, according to Principal Robert Watt, a reception for the mid-term graduates will be held at 7 p.m., February 2.

Mid-term graduates at Oceana will return to receive their diplomas with the June graduating class, Dr. Watt said.

John Sloane, Pacifica representative on the school board, will award diplomas at the mid-term ceremonies at Serramonte in Daly City.

In other business this week, trustees approved sabbatical leaves next year for Donald Kambic (one year) and George Hinkle (spring semester) of Terra Nova and Helen Hill, Ned Pexton and Alexander Fraser (all for the full term) of Oceana.

Nicad Cell Now Used in Hearing Aids

A hearing aid that uses a nicad-cell has been developed which eliminates the necessity to purchase batteries.

The nickel cadmium power cell does away with background noises and hum in the amplifier. The automatic suppression circuit controls loud noises and helps understanding in noisy places.

The instrument is moderately priced and can be fit to most hearing losses using your doctor's prescription or our electronic analysis.

Westborough Plan Gets Much Talk

By BOB PETERSON

For a postponed item, the matter of a proposed planned commercial development in South San Francisco's Westborough area received a lot of rhetoric last week.

Opposition to postponing a decision as to whether a service station and speedy mart ought to go into the area was voiced by resident Don Gamma.

"City officials don't have the guts to vote for or against anything," he charged. "Are we (the council) going to keep on delaying it until there are only four or five people here to dissent, and thereby push it through?"

The item has been discussed for a lengthy period and twice denied at the planning commission level. At the last council meeting opponents to the commercialization were told there would have to be a ruling as to whether the applicant could be legally denied that particular use of his property. That ruling apparently was not available.

Reasons Mayor Bill Borba gave for putting the matter over until February 7 was that the applicant wants time to redesign the area, and councilman Frank Bertucelli was absent from the meeting.

When Gamma asked if the applicant (Mike Callan) was in the audience and found that he was not, Gamma said, "He (Callan) already was assured of the postponement, obviously."

Mayor Borba said to Gamma, "You don't like the way the city is run? Do you have any ideas?"

Gamma responded that "yes" he did have some.

"Just keep them to yourself," said Borba.

Gary Boyd, representative of Texaco Oil Company, the firm attempting to put in a new station, said the postponement should not rest solely on Callan's shoulders.

Boyd said City Planner Dan Pass proposed "a very severe" modification to the corner proposed for development which Boyd said was "considered a totally unacceptable alternative."

Pass said the did indeed propose that Callan change the plan but "the delay was not suggested nor sanctioned by the planning department."

D.C. Youth Leaves Note, Shoots Self

A 15-year-old Daly City boy shot himself in the head with a hunting rifle Sunday after writing a two-page suicide letter blaming "family problems" for his act.

The body of Samuel Garcia was found lying in a pool of blood on top of a 30-30 caliber rifle, by his younger brother when he went to get him for dinner about 7 p.m.

A Coroner's Office spokesman said the victim left a two-page "well written and articulate" note describing why he had decided to take his own life.

Samuel was a student at Serramonte High School, Daly City. He lived in a small two bedroom cottage behind the main house at 240 Oriente Street. His younger brother, Michael, discovered the body.

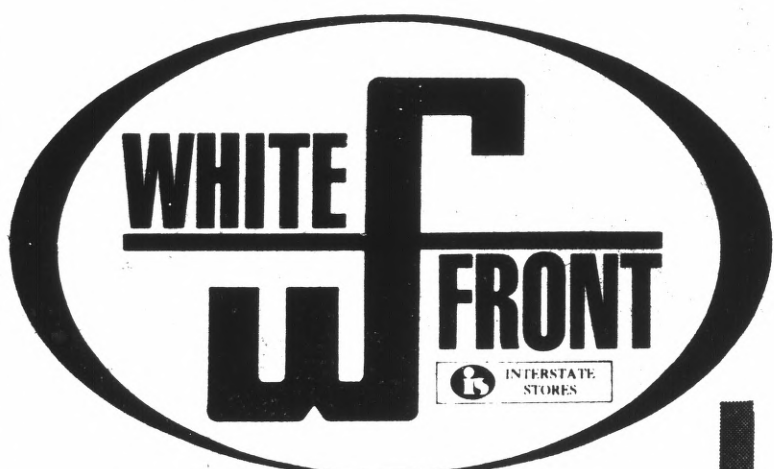

Investigators from the Coroner's Office said the boy had apparently placed the weapon under his chin and pulled the trigger.

Samuel's parents are divorced and the boy lived with his mother, Angela Garcia, at the Daly City address.

He is survived by his brother, a sister, Cynthia, and father, Guadalupe Garcia.

Terra Nova Topics

By Rockie Montenegro

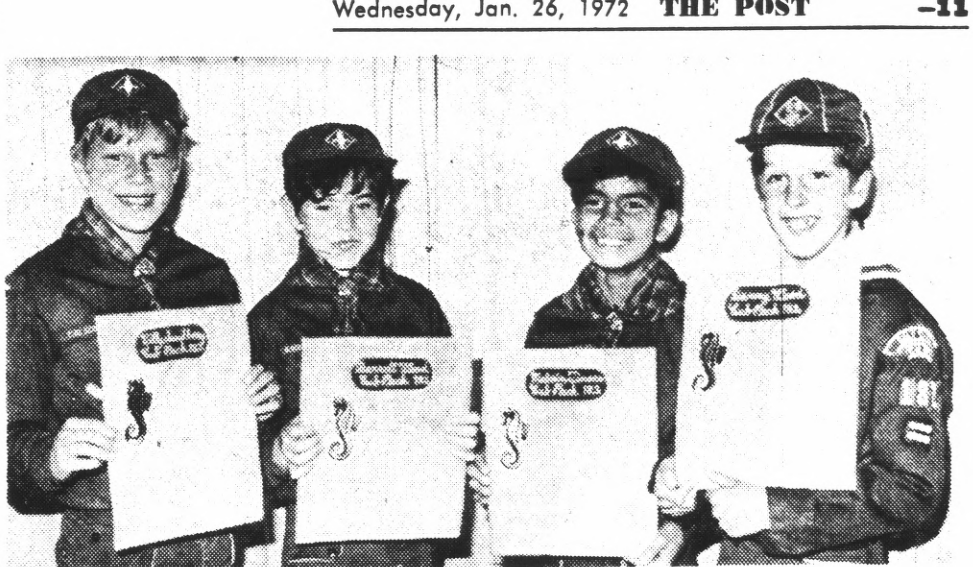

"On Tuesday afternoon, the Planning Council voted to drop Discovery Day due to a general lack of interest and participation," read last Thursday's student bulletin, which completely wiped out five months of the council's hard work and efforts.

Discovery Day, previously mentioned in this column as Culture Day, was originally proposed as an all-day, monthly program of culturally oriented activities. Later, as problems arose involving reliable methods of taking attendance and lack of class space in which to house the 1,680 students simultaneously for the supervised group demonstrations, concerts, and activities, the Planning Council voted to have the all-day proposal reduced to a two-hour session of activity.

December 15 was scheduled for the first trial run of the program, but it never materialized. The council then set their goal for Discovery Day to take place on February 12, but because of the limited number of teachers who submitted their plans for their special activity, and those who said that they would give a presentation earlier but failed to carry out their promises by submitting the necessary details, the Planning Council was forced to abandon their proposal altogether, since there were not enough activities to occupy all of the students.

"The faculty, students, and administration show general apathy," stated Planning Council Chairman and TN teacher Linda Dhunijishah. "All three groups keep to themselves, and there is limited communication between them."

The Planning Council is requesting that teachers who had turned in activity ideas that they would be willing to present during Discovery Day to give their presentation during a future activity period. They also plan to arrange for outside professional groups to present assemblies of general interest (both educational and entertaining) for all students, and are willing to support and sponsor suggestions for activities from which they feel TN students would benefit.

WEBELOS (left to right) Billy Sundberg, Darrell Wood, Melvin Tinoco and Cub Danny Wood were among those receiving Pack 182 awards for swimming attendance. They received a framed felt picture on which they are encouraged to hang their awards when they graduate from Boy Scouts and turn over the uniforms to other Cubs. Award winners not pictured: Peter Gim, Greg Guisti, Chris Cundiff, Greg Jacobs, Steven Hanson, Kenneth Gim and Patrick Hanley. (Post Photo)

PREVIEWING fashions from Livingstons of Grant Avenue and Stonestown are Westlake Catholic Women committee members Mrs. Robert Walker (left) and Mrs. Harry Kanelopoulos. "In" styles are to be shown at "The San Francisco Scene," the WCW's 18th annual fashion show and luncheon to be held in the Grand Ballroom of the Fairmont Hotel, Saturday, February 12. For further information and reservations call Mrs. Albert Modena or Mrs. Harry Kanelopoulos.

Louanne Heath

Reserve Saturday morning for a special type of shopping—shopping guaranteed to obtain an elegant afternoon of dining, visiting and being treated to a preview look at what we'll be wearing when warmer days are here again!

The place to do your purchasing will be in the parish hall of Our Lady of Mercy Catholic Church in Westlake. The hours of the sale will be 10 a.m. until noon, and you won't have to browse about for the right item, simply ask for tickets to the upcoming fashion show and luncheon being sponsored by the Westlake Catholic Women.

Mrs. Francis Kelly is the chairman of the event, the major fund-raising activity for the group. Mrs. Albert Modena and Mrs. Harry Kanelopoulos are in charge of reservations.

"The San Francisco Scene" is the theme for this year's edition which will be staged in the Grand Ballroom of the Fairmont Hotel on Saturday, February 12, beginning at 11 a.m. with a no-host social hour.

MRS. DONALD GIANFERMO, publicity chairman for the group, notes that fashions will be by Livingston's of Grant Avenue and Stonestown.

Members of the Westlake Catholic Women are already selling investment tickets to anyone interested in contributing to the work done by the women for their church. Persons interested in contributing or in turning in investment tickets should contact Mrs. Robert Walker or Mrs. William Mahoney.

As usual, the hotel has arranged to serve an especially delectable luncheon so guests are assured of a fine meal, served in the impeccable Fairmont manner; a treat for the eyes, furnished by Livingston's, and good fellowship, all for the small price of $6 per person, Mrs. Gianfermo explained.

Should the thought of public transportation be less than appealing to you then Mrs. Gianfermo reports that special arrangements have been made to enable ladies attending the luncheon to park in the facilities of the California Street Masonic hall for just $2.50 for the entire day. The hall is only one short block from the hotel and the special price should make it extremely easy for everyone who wishes to bring her own carload of guests to do so.

ANOTHER BIG DAY in store for Serramonte Shopping Center! This time the special event, planned for the spacious mall, will involve the Boy Scouts, Cub Scouts and Explorers and it is bound to display a side of today's youth that negative headlines and individualistic dress styles may tend to obscure.

Scouts will be doing demonstrations of crafts, puppeteering, dancing and clowning, as well as exhibiting skill at building full-sized signal towers and bridges, doing first aid and displaying conservation material.

Special ceremonies and awards are being planned for noon and the participating Scout units will mass for a display of colors and uniforms. February 5 will be the date for the youth activities and it will be a good day for everyone to have his faith in young people restored by the sight of so many enthusiastic and energetic boys taking part in constructive programs.

THE DENNIS CLARK family is preparing to establish a new home in San Mateo following the sale of their Westlake home.

Mr. and Mrs. Clark and children, Kevin and Lindsey, will be moving before the month ends.

MRS. GEORGE SIGGIE, of the Holy Angels Women's Guild, reports that plans to present a Sew and Show fashion show next month are developing well.

A number of ladies in the parish have indicated that they are anxious to take part in the fun and a list of models will be ready within a few days, according to Mrs. Siggie.

Many Classes Still Open FOR YWCA Activities

The San Mateo County YWCA announces that many of their classes scheduled this winter are still open for registration.

Due to a delay caused by the replacement of pool equipment, the Swimming program at Pacifica will now start the week of January 31st. Blanca Henderson will give morning and evening classes for adults and children. A special class has been arranged for Tiny Tots (2 through 5 years), who can learn to swim with the aid of mothers or substitute mothers.

Applications are still being accepted for other sport activities and physical exercise programs.

These include Golf for Beginners, which begins February 19th with instructor, Ted Smith; Tennis for Beginners and Intermediates on Saturday mornings with Raemond Sammons; Trimmastics with Kahz Zmuda on Monday, Wednesday and Friday mornings; and Yoga on Mondays and Thursdays with Liliane Jehl.

Among the dancing programs offered this session are Polynesian Dancing with Jerry "Kelelani" Matlock in day and evening classes; Ballroom Dancing on Thursday evenings with Gene Evans; and, for 7 to 12 year olds, Ballet for Beginners on Mondays and Wednesdays with instructor, Gail Barton.

Other interesting subjects are also still open for enrollment. These include Chinese Cooking with Linda Lew who will instruct in the preparation of authentic dishes from Peking, Shanghai and Tzechuan; Guitar for Beginners and Intermediates on Monday evenings; and Drawing and Painting on Wednesday evenings with Ralph McNeill, who will instruct students in basic drawing from life or still life and the fundamentals of drawing preparatory to painting.

As in past sessions, the Widget World Nursery School is open for registration to children from 2 years 9 months to 6 years old. This program helps the child to use his body, cope with his feelings, and enjoy communication with and trust in other children and adults. It helps him to accept limitations, build self-reliance and grow in self-confidence.

For further information regarding the Nursery or any of the above-mentioned classes contact the YWCA office at 375 So. Mayfair, Daly City, 94015, or call 756-7370.

Tom Powell Behold The Pomegranate

One of the most overlooked fruits on the grocer's counter is the pomegranate.

It has good reason to be.

The pomegranate, while perfectly delicious, is not at all adapted to today's streamlined, fast paced way of life. While other fruits and vegetables are adapting better every day to the chef's necessity for speed (corn and peas can be cooked in two minutes for example), the pomegranate is clearly the Model T Ford of the food world.

If you have never tried one, here's how it works. You peel off the dry outer membrane and attack these little red seeds. The seeds are surrounded by a juice sac filled with its own juice of excellent flavor. The catch is that you need at least an hour to eat one — an amount of time seemingly available only to children and flower people these days.

One of the few to bother with the pomegranate is George Stieb, a Porterville rancher-farmer.

Ten years ago he built a juicer (since no juicers are built commercially) and has been making improvements through the years. The first year he squeezed fifty gallons of juice. By last year the squeeze was up to 50,000 gallons. Along with juice he has begun to market pomegranate jelly and pancake syrup.

For your trivia file, there are between 1500 and 1600 acres of pomegranates in the state, 1200 of which are in Tulare County. Some 35 pounds of pomegranates go into a single gallon of juice.

California is the only commercial producer of the pomegranate. No one seems interested in challenging that status.

Good morning, good cooks.

Being in the happy position of having so many new recipes, it's difficult to decide which ones to share today.

In all categories — entries, salads and desserts — I'm suffering an embarrassment of riches. It's poor taste to brag about wealth, but I can't help it. I'm rich, rich, rich in recipes.

The source of all this wealth is a collection of parish and club cookbooks. It seems when good cooks set their minds to picking out and sharing their favorite recipes, they really turn out some gems.

These recipes come from a cookbook published by the Guild of St. Perpetua's Church in Lafayette, Calif.

COLE SLAW SOUFFLE SALAD

- 1 pkg. lime gelatin
- 1 cup hot water
- 1/2 cup cold water
- 1 Tablespoon vinegar
- 1 Tablespoon lemon juice
- 1/2 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- dash pepper
- 1/2 cup real mayonnaise
- 1 1/2 cups shredded cabbage
- 1/4 cup diced green pepper
- 1 1/2 teaspoons minced onion

Dissolve the one package lime gelatin in one cup hot water. Add the half cup cold water, one tablespoon each vinegar and lemon juice, half teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, half teaspoon salt, dash pepper and half cup mayonnaise. Blend well with rotary beater. Pour into refrigerator freezing tray. Quick chill in freezing unit for 15 to 20 minutes or until firm about one-inch from edge, but soft in center. Turn mixture into bowl and whip with rotary beater until fluffy. Fold in the one and one-half cups shredded cabbage, fourth cup diced green pepper and one and one-half teaspoons minced onion. Pour into one-quart mold. Chill until firm, at least 4 hours or overnight.

As an aid to keeping your food budget balanced and as a tasty main dish, try this tuna casserole.

TUNA AND RICE CASSEROLE

- 2 cans (6 1/2 oz.) tuna
- 2 cups cooked rice
- 2 Tablespoons parsley, chopped
- 2 Tablespoons onion, minced
- Cheese Sauce (recipe below)
- 1/2 cup buttered crumbs

Drain the two cans tuna and flake. Lightly butter a one quart casserole. Arrange a layer of the cooked rice, top with half the tuna and one tablespoon each parsley and onion. Pour half cheese sauce over layer. Repeat layers topping with cheese sauce and the half cup buttered crumbs. Sprinkle very lightly with paprika.

Serves 6.

CHEESE SAUCE

- 3 Tablespoons butter
- 2 Tablespoons flour
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon pepper
- 2 cups milk
- 1 cup grated American cheese
- 1/2 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce

Melt the three tablespoons butter in saucepan. Add the two tablespoons flour, one teaspoon salt and fourth teaspoon pepper. Stir until well blended. Remove from heat and slowly add the two cups milk. Return to heat and cook slowly, stirring. While cooking add the cup grated American cheese and let melt into sauce. Add the one-half teaspoon Worcestershire sauce. Bring to boil and use in Tuna Casserole.

NOTE: Regular or process rice swells to about 4 times it's original measure. So you use one-half cup raw rice for this recipe.

Dear me, we've run out of space and I still have a delightful dessert to share. Ah well, we will start off next week with the dessert.

CORRECTION: In the Bill cookies poem, the fourth line reads — "Cream these together, add TWO eggs and beat hard."

Westmoor Students Get Out The Vote

Many senior Westmoorites will have the opportunity this year to have a say in the government as a result of the 18-year-old being enabled to vote.

Not only will the community be receiving more voters, but also deputy registrars, whose job is to register voters. A few students plan to take on this responsibility.

Every Thursday at 1 p.m. a training school for these people is conducted. They learn the fundamentals of the job and the procedure of registering eligible voters.

An organization, known as Front Lash, headed by Mike Lopez, a student at Stanford, is willing to pay 30 cents to each deputy registrar, for every new voter they get.

An additional 10 cents comes from the government, totaling 40 cents for each new voter.

The money then goes to Westmoor's Student Body, towards a P.A. system, which would be placed in the cafeteria, mall, gym and halls.

Not only would the system announce important messages but also would play music.

Senior Carol Edwards is in charge of the 18-year-old voting at Westmoor.

Now planning a projected 2½-month long summer trip to Canada are members of Westmoor's Bicycle Club, under the direction of Len Martin.

President Paul Hodgskiss reported that the group would follow the coastal route, as plans for the trip took shape during the last meeting of December 21.

The club has already cycled to such places as Golden Gate Park, Muir Woods, La Honda, The Presidio, Redwood City, and Stinson Beach.

They are planning to go to Samuel Taylor State Park,

Memorial Park and at Easter vacation, Yosemite.

Active members include Paul Hodgskiss, Penny Wright, Anthony Disalvo, Helmuth Bachmann, Rob Robertson, Tony Martinez, Armando Lagunas, Eric Dyssegard and Mike Nicholson.

Shirley Simmons, a senior at Westmoor High School, is now writing for the scholastic youth magazine "Co-Ed" during the 1971-72 school year.

Asked to submit articles pertaining to the new fads and fashions within her school and community area, Shirley adds this to her present responsibility as a school representative for the new "Fig Leaf" magazine which the McCall's company started this school year.

"Co-Ed" deals with a variety of subjects such as new fashion styles, meal planning and serving, party ideas, new hairstyles and interior decorating.

Barbara Bladen Contender For Academy Award

The menacing brute who is cruelly victimized in the country's number one popular film, "Clockwork Orange," turned out to be a quiet, well-mannered and articulate British actor when he made his first visit to the West Coast.

Malcolm McDowell is being heralded high and wide as a contender for an Academy Award. Nobody who has seen the film will disagree that he is England's "Actor of the Seventies."

Yet few Americans have seen his work until now. Out of four films he's made, only "If" and "Clockwork" have played here. Joseph Losey's "Figures In A Landscape" was never released, nor was Bryan Forbes' "Long Ago Tomorrow."

"Director Stanley Kubrick saw 'If' three times. When he first read the Anthony Burgess book, he thought of me from the fourth chapter on," the soft-spoken, 28 year old told me.

"I was cast in January of '70 and worked on the film from September of that year to March, '71. Because the role is integral to the film, I couldn't just walk in cold. So I began conferring with Stanley on costumes and makeup. We became very close and I'd go night after night to his house, eat, talk and play ping pong."

"I'd try on everything and we'd look at the rushes every night. The lipstick idea didn't suit me, so I gave it to Din, one of the other Droogs. Then we tried on sets of eyes lashes, the longest we could find and decided one set looked more sinister than two."

"The costuming was a progression what with unisex clothes and men's makeup having such a massive market that we wonder where it will stop. 'I don't think the movie is prophetic. It's obviously shot in a stylized fashion that isn't really futuristic because everything really exists. I wore paratroopers boots and a bowler hat and the sets are actual places. (The milk bar, prison check-in room and front foyer of the writer's house are the only specially constructed sets.)"

"The picture shows a slant in time, a society that doesn't exist exactly like this on the surface but does on the underneath."

The book is based on autobiographical material from the author's own life. His wife was raped and beaten by two G.I. soldiers during a World War II blackout in England and was mentally affected. She eventually died.

But much in the film is Kubrick's genius and some of it is spur-of-the-moment creativity.

"One day Stanley asked me if I could dance. I did a simple soft shoe step to 'Singing In The Rain' because it is my favorite song. And I started kicking a stunt man in time."

"Stanley jumped up and down with delight. It just came to me naturally because Gene Kelly was always full of joy and I think it is the happiest pop song ever written."

"I didn't try to be a sympathetic character, it's in the writing. The quality is best described as engaging. I tried to play the character as a kind of evil force, larger than life and not easy to define. He is the personification of violence, not a particular or specific character."

"Call it abstract yet believable but Alex is the only free spirit in the film. He does what he wants."

"If people say the film is a glorification of violence, that's rubbish. The film has nothing to do with violence. It is about freedom of choice and freedom of man, the cornerstone of Christian teaching. The book is compulsory reading for Jesuit priests."

McDowell began his acting career with the Royal Shakespeare Theater but claims he "loathed it."

Samuel Chandler Decorating One- Room Apartment

"How can I decorate a one-room apartment?" For an answer, Seventeen Magazine has published a book directed to people living in dorms, one-room apartments or in a room at home.

It is loaded with excellent ideas.

"Begin by considering what is already available," write the authors, Ann Pardue Sonet and Ellen Peterson Morris. "Add up all your furnishings and evaluate them piece by piece. You will then be able to decide on what you can keep, what you can alter for better looks and greater efficiency, and what would be better off not there at all. Then you can see what you may want to add."

YOUR ROOM SHOULD BE a reflection of you and perhaps a roommate. One critical thing to keep in mind when you make your evaluation is the importance of function. It's a mistake to sacrifice convenience for appearance." Thus the authors write.

"Begin with your activities. Mentally list everything you do in your room. With such a list a pattern begins to take shape and you have a better idea which activities demand the greatest emphasis in your decorating plans."

From such general advice Mrs. Sonet, who is a member of the National Society of Interior Designers and Mrs. Morris who is a graduate from the New York School of Interior Design, turn to specific topics: walls, windows, doors, furniture, lamps, accessories, spacing, storage, color, etc. There are eleven chapters in the book. Each deals with some special part of the room that may be serving as living room, bedroom, dining room and parlor all at the same time.

The last chapter is entitled, "Help! I Have a Problem!" How do you hide a part-time desk? How do you store music equipment? How do you hang wall paper? How do you entertain in one room? How do you get a little privacy? How do you paint your room? With words and pictures the authors answer such complex problems.

A SPECIAL SECTION contains colored pages picturing rooms that have been decorated according to the moods of the people who occupy them. Such rooms are illustrations of what can be done by the person who is "young in fact and style; who is richer in taste and imagination than in money."

"The Seventeen Guide To Decorating For One-Room Living" is a how-to-do-it book which should be consulted by many. It may be borrowed from your public library or purchased from a bookstore for $7.95.

The addresses of the Daly City Public Libraries are 275 Southgate Avenue, 6351 Mission, and 129 Aca-

Youth Aroused, About to Speak

Youth once were considered best seen and not heard.

But politicians beware: Youth is aroused, and will be heard. Many of them will speak loud and clear at the municipal polls on April 11.

Once short on political voice, the youth have become a force to be reckoned with. An indication of their power was evident at the last meeting of the South San Francisco city council.

An entourage arrived and made known their displeasure at a rescinded ban on non-returnable bottles and cans. They proved they have a good memory. The only thing, it would seem, more risky to a politician than not knowing and accepting the worth of youth is showing disinterest.

MAYOR BILL BORBA panicked. He called for a clearing of the council chambers. Not being up for re-election, Borba doesn't have to worry—this year.

Some politicians do have to watch it. Their voting records show that the only thing many of them do with any consistency is alienate. They are normally fast with the rhetoric but slow to produce results. They spend too much time politicking.

These seasoned politicians prefer the unquestioning vote of confidence they've learned to expect from an apathetic public, the ones not burdened with too much thinking, and who have not really concerned themselves with what their city officials are doing.

It wouldn't take much of a look in many cases for a citizen to put a lot of politicians in an embarrassing position. Making them explain their vote would do it.

MOST OF THE ENTRENCHED politicians are so sure of their community status they consider the municipal election an insult to their effectively operating realm.

Now that the youth vote is here, some politicians are shaking. They can maintain a rapport with their faithful, maybe. But the youth presents complications.

They've done their home work. They've studied the issues. They've become concerned about their future. They've asked questions. They've not been given adequate answers.

The youth have jumped onto the political bandwagon with such strength those once riding comfortable are now strapping on seat belts to keep up with the times, and in hopes of staying in the drivers seat.

It's a new game now. The youth vote could mean a break-up of once strong political teams who previously never had to be concerned about the public getting interested in politics. Joe Public had never wanted to be bothered before.

QUIETLY, the politicians are beginning to pay attention to the youth. Why? Because the youth are at the controls. The ultimate question is, will the politicians be able to induce the youth to pull the lever they want them to pull in the voting booth.

It's a sure bet most are giving close examination to what a strong youth vote can mean. And for those who aren't, it's possible they won't have a second chance.

James Halley Parents Don't Understand

Democrats claim that youth will vote as a solid, reliable, liberal democratic bloc. Republicans claim the kiddies will vote like dad and mom, and some conservatives hope more like grandma and grandpa.

These conclusions may give comfort and sound great at organizational meetings. But they really show, in yet another way that adults do not understand their bewildering offspring. While the world will continue to turn if the old folks never understand rock music, it will certainly turn differently for those who fail to analyze the youth vote correctly.

Politics, of course, is always unpredictable. Like poker, much depends upon chance. The impact of the youth vote on this year's election can be likened to the first hand of a poker game after a new wild card has been inserted. What does it mean? How does it change the odds? How should the hand be played?

Common sense immediately responds that the bloc and mom and dad theories misjudge reality. Some fundamentals should be considered.

First, 11.5 million new voters in the 18 to 21 age group are eligible. When one recalls that Nixon beat Humphrey by about half a million votes and Kennedy won by a smaller margin, this must be recognized as enough to tilt the game.

Participation will be low, when compared with the dismal record of Americans generally. Moreover, registration and turnout will be heaviest at both ends of the spectrum. Close to 100 percent of the most radical (both left and right) will participate, and an ever diminishing percentage will register and vote as the center of the spectrum is approached. The young who are interested in studies, sports, lovemaking, and the other rites of spring will not be as involved.

Many of the young will work hard at politics. Freer of the obligations of daily breadwinning they will, when excited work day and night for their favorites. While registration and turnout will be low, the work quotient will be high.

Second, the young exalt individuality. They oppose "establishment" and "structure", including the Democratic and Republican parties.

Born into a world of numbers, they will turn on those who treat them as ciphers. While the adult community is too tired to protest inane commercials and computer typed letters, new voters will greet machines and machinery with revulsion.

They will, in the main, reject political parties. Many who have registered as members of a party have done so solely to exercise choice in primary elections. The old disciplines have no pull on the new breed.

Furthermore, there are no bloc leaders of the youth group. Leaders require followers, and the devotion of the young to individuality makes it unlikely that they will fall in line behind any organizational pied piper. Both parties will pretend to have youth leaders, but behind the facade will be found the foolish games of adults.

Third, the young will be candidate oriented and they will support those who most closely resemble themselves. Youthful, charismatic and "gutsy" candidates of either party have the better chance. Mavericks will attract them, for mavericks shake the system and most of the kids want the system shaken.

Fourth, the young are deeply stirred, by certain issues. They see the world we are turning over to them as far less than ideal. They worry about pollution, arms control, and equality more than adults. They concern about war is even more immediate.

From all this, one must conclude that the young bring an interesting yeast to the electorate. That they will not conform to the old ways may be a force for good. To view them as mirroring mother's and father's attitudes or to expect them to function as a pliable bloc is mistaken.

Our Viewpoint

Vocalism a Grand Jury Right

As the newly sworn San Mateo County Grand Jury for 1972 begins its deliberations it has a unique opportunity for service to the people of the county. In recent years many critics have charged that county grand juries are an obsolescent, if not obsolete, institution. This is not necessarily true.

Within the limits of the charge given them by the Superior Court, a grand jury has strong investigative powers that can be utilized in the public behalf. It has powers of both comment and commendation that can command the attention of the public.

A strong grand jury can bring a degree of leadership and can helpfully chart improvements in public policy for the other officers of the county.

But it can do this only if it is ready to listen to complaints and suggestions, and to consider them wisely and in the perspective they deserve. It must be both observant and vigilant, and unafraid to speak up, even at the risk of

Will E. Thomas Turning Backs On the Truth

WE WERE somewhat startled Sunday when Justice Robert Kane said truth was becoming irrelevant in the courtroom. But quickly assessing the times, we shouldn't have been startled; merely alarmed.

"We have become so wrapped up in the reckless pursuit that we have abandoned such a basic thing as truth itself," Kane told a small audience at Skyline College, where an exchange club "Freedom Shrine" was being presented and accepted.

"Lawyers simply do not give much weight to the factor of untruthfulness as formerly, simply because juries and, yes, judges, too, began to ignore the value of truth," the jurist said.

"Everything," he declared "must be rationalized in the modern theme. All too often our criminal process is resolved not on the issue of guilt or innocence, but instead on the basis of rules which totally ignore and disregard their disastrous effect upon the public welfare."

WE, TOO, remember when truth was the rule, rather than the exception. Those chanting for humanized, individual rights often fail to recognize truth as one of the most important basic ingredients of freedom — individual or group.

Sad are these days in which truth has taken a backseat.

Interesting and Informative?

(Frank LaPierre IS NOT on special assignment and his informative and interesting-column follows.—FDL)

WE ARE DIRECTING this first paragraph to two possible candidates in the upcoming municipal elections in the North County. Unless they file we will not name them. Once they do we will insist certain questions be answered for the benefit of the public and those who contributed to their previous campaigns two years ago.

DIVISION EIGHT of the Election Campaigns Code under Expenditures for Candidates, section 11561 page 313: A candidate for a municipal office must file a campaign disclosure statement if he received or expended $200 or more for his campaign. This is a total sum. San Mateo County has a similar law but the figure is $500 or more from any one source.

LET'S PUT IT this way: If a candidate for public office nowadays doesn't spend at least $200 he or she must be putting on a low key campaign. And if they can't muster that minimal sum from contributors they might as well stay out. It cost $54 two years ago simply to file. Add to this amount the cost of a couple of newspaper ads and there you have it!

SIGN IN WINDOW of a Westlake cleaning establishment: "We wash sleeping bags very quietly."

WET BLANKET—Got a call the other day telling that only a half dozen Daly City firemen attended chief Herb Ritzman's retirement dinner. The caller, judging by his tone and message content, is not a fan of the chief. Shame!

LOTS A HUBBUB OVER that 50 year old retirement proposal for police and fire in Daly City. Several cops have backed Yours Truly into a corner and are trying to "sell" this humble (but very proud) writer on the benefits of retiring police and fire fellows at 50. Same situation, different corner, politicians are using to reject the idea. I'm interested in what homeowners say after they learn it will add to their tax rates. More later.

MISSION MERCHANTS qualify for the "Plug of the Week." Here 'tis: The MMA will hold its Installation Dinner Dance at the House of (whoopie) Parties on Saturday, February 5. Tickets are limited to the first 2,000 people.

BETTER CHECK with D. C. Powers-that-Be before you put up a garden house in your garden. City Planner has recommended to the council that a new ordinance be adopted to smooth out some of the wrinkles in present hit or miss laws governing such structures. Too many of the so-called "tool sheds" sprouting up around the city and, in some cases, creating eyesores.

SICK CALL — D.C. City attorney Al Polonsky at Kaiser with tummy trouble. He's improving after being rushed there last week . . . Jeff High assistant superintendent, Glen South, back home recuperating from heart flareup. . . . Persons struck by that wild bug that's flying around too numerous too mention in this limited space.

ROADSIDE SIGN on Junipero Serra Freeway near Mary's Help Hospital proclaiming "World's Most Beautiful Freeway." Apparently the person that dreamed that sign up is strictly a dreamer. He (or she) has never been east, west, or south. For our money ANY freeway just ain't beautiful, leastways that multi-strip of concrete called Interstate 280. I invite our State engineers to travel through Arkansas on Interstate 70 if they really want to see a freeway.

NO TRUTH AT ALL in that rumor Daly City is out scouting a negotiating team to hassel with city employees over wages, et al this year.

THAT LIGHT AT THE CORNER of 87th and Park Plaza is (partly) useless. A tree branch obscures one of the signals and motorists are always looking for some excuse to zoom through such signals. Let's cut it down! (The limb, not the signals.) By the way, the signals are in the Colma Lighting District NOT Daly City. Seems some folks have taken D.C. to task on the tree branch. Get your target right before you pounce people!

Better Business

The Continual Sales

QUESTION: A store keeps having sales the year around stressing per cent off regular prices. How can they continually offer savings off the regular prices?

ANSWER: Retail stores advertise sales throughout the year and the public seems to love them. But the sales are on different items. Any sales that are always on the same merchandise the year around would be phoney sales because the true prices would be the sales prices.

QUESTION: What effect does the newly passed Fair Credit Reporting Act have on stores which look into people's background before they can buy on time?

ANSWER: The law passed in 1971 makes it mandatory that a firm extending credit based solely or partly upon information supplied by a credit bureau must, if it denies credit to an individual, give that party the name and address of the involved credit bureau. If credit is denied based on information in a direct clearance from another credit grantor, the consumer must be informed at the time of denial that he has the right to request in writing within 60 days the nature of the information on which the rejection was made. Retailers which sell your IOU to a third party must notify you of its name and address.

QUESTION: I bought a package of pencils on sale. I went back the next day for another package and found the pencils had tripled in price. They didn't have any sign informing the consumer when the sale ended.

ANSWER: The store's advertising stated when the sale ended.

QUESTION: What do you think about the enclosed mailing I received about putting my child's picture in a Hollywood Photo Studio's directory?

ANSWER: The "mug book" promotion to mothers is an old one. We are under the impression that big advertisers, agencies or motion picture studios do not select many children for modeling or acting jobs from such publications.

Terra Nova High Upsets Jefferson Hoopsters

By JERRY LITTELL

It was the meek's turn to inherit the earth Friday as Terra Nova High School pulled the upset of the year on Peninsula hard courts.

Bud Bresnahan's Tigers knocked off previously undefeated Jefferson, 50-48, in overtime to highlight Friday's North Peninsula League action. In other conference action South San Francisco upended El Camino, 60-47; Oceana blasted punchless Westmoor, 63-30; and Serramonte edged Half Moon Bay, 63-61.

Handling the full-court press with surprising ease, Terra Nova pulled itself into playoff contention with the surprising victory. The combined heroics of Ron MacArthur (clutch shooting), George Yaron (scoring) and John Racanelli (rebounding) offset a fine individual performance by Jeff's Ken Smith (23 points).

MacArthur's bucket with 34 seconds left tied the game in regulation and his free throw opened the extra-period scoring for the Tigers. Smith flipped in a layin with 1:09 remaining to give Jeff back the lead, 48-47. Then Yaron's layin reversed the advantage with 34 seconds remaining and his one free throw with just three seconds left iced the victory.

Yaron also did an excellent job stopping Jeff's outside threat, guard Ray Viado, with just seven points. Racanelli, despite getting only nine points, fought Smith for 15 rebounds.

They say the hoops at Oceana are vacuum cleaners and the Sharks do nothing at home to dispel that rumor as they com-

Westmoor Rams and left the league with only a two-game budge in the standings between first and sixth place.

Terry Johnston's consistent outside shooting and a perfect six-for-six third quarter effort by Tom Harper led Oceana to its second impressive victory over a conference contender this week. Jumping out to a quick 10-point lead and going into a stall offense to force the Rams out of their zone, Oceana just pecked away, stole the ball on the press and demoralized the visitors with an amazing shooting display.

The game was wrapped up in the third period with Oceana outscoring Westmoor, 19-7, with Harper showing the way. Their sagging defense clogged up the middle and Westmoor just couldn't seem to adjust to the stifling confines of the Shark gymnasium on offense.

Dominating another team with its height, a rarity indeed, the South San Francisco Warriors thwarted all of Camino's inside offense in the first three quarters and took the victory. With new starters on both teams, Mark Hillsinger for SSF and Kevin Hornick in the pivot for Mark Spivey, the game got off to a slow start.

Camino's offense bogged down as the Colts got just three buckets in the first half, one in the first quarter and two in the second, and had a three-minute scoreless spell and another five-minute drought at another.

The Warriors blocked eight shots in the first quarter and had 13 stuffs for the night, 11 more than they've had the past few years. And when the Warriors got into foul trouble, 10 and behold, they slipped into a zone (yes, a zone) defense — still a rarer rarity.

Cornell Williams' two free throws in the final 21 seconds gave Serramonte the win and Half Moon Bay the cellar. Leading by as many as 12 points the first half and six the second, the Regents nevertheless had to withstand a 24 point effort from foul-plagued Pete Peterson.

El Camino high downed Half Moon Bay Wednesday, 71-52, while Oceana's powerful front line did in SSF, 67-48. Jefferson upended stubborn Serramonte, 70-58, while Westmoor downed Terra Nova, 73-56, to round out the day's action.

Rich Wright was the biggest offender against the Cougars popping for 18 points, while Mark Spivey controlled the boards and added 16. Kevin Hornick, making his first appearance after a week-long flu bout, added 12 more as the Colts could be in a position to mess up the Warriors' playoff hopes.

Oceana's strong defense, coupled with the Warriors' inability to make early layins, gave the Sharks their impressive victory. Tom Harper, Larry Johnston and junior Art Thomas alternated crashing the boards and gathering in full-court passes off fast breaks as the Sharks beat the Warriors at what used to be SSF's game.

The Warriors led early, fell behind quickly and by the second half it was getting worse every minute as the Sharks were handling their offense with ease.

The Warriors' only threat came just before intermission when three steals off a zone press gave center Lynn Simmons three straight foul-line jumpers to close the Warrior gap to 24-19, Oceana.

Twenty-one free throw attempts, 14 conversions, in the last eight minutes kept the Sharks comfortably in front.

Westmoor pulled out early and extended its lead to 20 points in the third period with Gary Stoller and Leo Biederman leading the fast-breaking Rams. Jim Woods controlled the attack with pin-point passing.

The NPL's leading scorer until yesterday, John Racanelli, got 20 points but dropped to second place in the individual race to Jeff's Kenny Smith, who has 94 points in four games.

Cap Edges Hillsdale

By DIRK SORESENSEN

The reign of basketball terror by the dark Knights of Hillsdale High may at last be coming to an end.

Hillsdale got the guillotine treatment from resurgent host Capuchino Friday, 63-59, despite valiant heroics by the prince of MPL basketball, Rod Williams.

Williams turned in a gutsy performance in which he almost brought victory to his team when it appeared they were fated to lose. The sophomore wonder dazzled everybody with a wide range of shots to lead all scorers with 29 points.

But one man doesn't make a team: just ask the Mustangs. Capuchino had ridden the hand of Rob Silver through much of the practice season, but last night put together a superb team effort which saw four players wind up in double figures.

Last night it was the ball handling of Pete Santora, the shooting eye of Mike Galvin, the ferocious rebounding of John Bomba, and the plain but ever-present Silver, who lurked at all corners of the court.

In the right place at the right time to add decisive buckets to the Cap tally, Silver turned in what was for him a cold evening with 14 points.

Capuchino appeared at the outset ready to blow the Knights off the court. The Mustangs ran up a 10-4 lead before Wayne Bunker rattled off six consecutive points to one Bomba free-throw.

Williams and Ron Doss added four more and the quarter closed with the Knights taking command, 15-13.

In the second quarter Hillsdale went up by as many as seven, but the Mustangs came right back to close the gap to 31-29 at the half.

Capuchino took advantage of numerous errant Knight passes to take a five-point lead. Time and again the traditionally smooth Knights committed blunders that for so many years they seemed incapable of.

As a result Capuchino quickly upped its lead to eight before Williams and Co. went to work.

Two buckets by Doss and Williams set the stage for Bunker to tie the score with a neat shot from outside. Bomba hit a free-throw to make it 58-57. Then on the ensuing Hillsdale shot, Bomba grabbed the rebound and hit Santora at mid-court.

The spunky Cap guard saw an opening and much to the surprise of everyone (there were only 40 seconds left and a stall maneuver was expected), raced to the basket and cleared the outstretched hands of the Knight defender to lay it in and draw a foul in the process. That was all she wrote for the Knights. Santora coolly sank the free-throw.

For the hard luck Knights, currently sporting a deceiving 2-3 league record, it certainly is a hard road.

It was a typical day of basketball in the Mid-Peninsula League. Another game, another showdown Wednesday.

This one featured Aragon (1-1) and Tall Tom Flavin against undefeated Capuchino (2-0), which had been riding a half game out of first place.

Aragon stayed in the title running, beating the host Mustangs soundly in the decisive final quarter for a 67-62 win. Both teams are now knotted in second place.

The matchup of certifiable stars was about even. Aragon had the 6-7 Flavin to hit the boards with, and Capuchino had the perfect answer in super-shooter Rob Silver.

And good as Flavin was offensively (18 points), Silver was even hotter (28).

It came down to the final quarter, and for the Mustangs, it was a disaster.

Starters John Bomba and Steve Turner were in deep foul trouble.

And nobody could stop Aragon forward Tim Sunderland, who hit three clutch field goals while the Mustangs were bogging down at the other end.

Cap hit just two of 12 from the field in that fateful final stanza. And the Mustangs were getting killed on the boards, thanks to the aforementioned Flavin.

Still, with just seconds left Cap was only down by two. The Mustangs had the ball out of bounds.

But the inbounds pass was stolen by quick Aragon guard Chris Kohlbray, who darted for a layin to cinch the win.

Cap coach Jimmy Johnson was disappointed, but is now more convinced than ever that he has a challenger this year.

"They had trouble stopping us today," he said, "no matter what they did. I think we can beat anybody at all in this league if we play well."

Obligation Of Sorts

There is some sort of obligation, we suppose, to write something about the "Super Bowl," so we'll ignore our instincts and give in to convention. Following are several remarks, as brief and as enthusiastic as we can make them:

- 1) This had to be one of the dullest "super" sports events of the past decade. We never thought golf would ever even approach football's excitement, but the Crosby stretch run by Johnny Miller and Jack Nicklaus surpasses Super Bowl thrills, going away. If this is all you have to offer by way of competition with the World Series, Pete Baby, you'd better find another poll which says that pro football is America's most popular and exciting sport, according to the people. We ain't gonna believe just one poll, even if it did cost almost $40,000.
- 2) Once again, the NFL was proven superior to the AFL.
- 3) What Miami "did" against Dallas made the 49ers look like the second best team in football—going away.
- 4) Once again, the fallibility of television sports announcer "experts" was proven. When Mike Ditka caught that touchdown pass, one of the "experts" intoned, "Well, that's a surprise. Dallas rarely throws to its tight ends." Oh? During the regular season, Dallas tight ends (Ditka and Billy Truax) caught 42 passes (that's three a game) for 554 yards and two TD's. During the three post-season games, they grabbed eight for 115 yards and one TD.

WE WONDER if it makes Fran Tarkenton feel all warm inside to know that he is suddenly stylish, the "in" thing. No longer is he, as he once was, an anachronism as a scrambling quarterback. Now he can look to new stars like Roger Stauback, Archie Manning and Greg Landry, and thumb his nose at the experts and jeer. "Yah, yah, I told ya so."

We must confess that we automatically accepted the opinion of the experts all those years that a scrambling quarterback is not only not as effective as one who poses in the pocket, but is more prone to injury. We did that in the face of Tarkenton's 11-year streak of 153 consecutive games, ended only on the last game of this past season when he sat—not because of injury, but because the Giants' season was lost and Tarkenton is spoiling for a trade.

And we don't buy the naturally following argument that today's quarterbacks can scramble with less chance of injury because they're so big and strong. Tarkenton is listed at an even 6 feet, 190 pounds. And you know how "official" listings of height and weight cheat. Tarkenton is more like 5-10, 170-180 pounds, which isn't even too big for a tennis pro. So there goes the argument of big and strong.

We've now come at least half way to the conclusion that the stand-up quarterback may actually be more vulnerable to injury than the scrambler. By the very nature of his style he is taught to expect protection so that he may concentrate down-field. He is therefore more vulnerable to the blind-side tackle, etc., precisely because he isn't—as would a runner—looking for it. He's rooted, very often, his cleats dug in. A solid whack when a QB is in that position raises hell with the knees.

A running quarterback, on the other hand, is more attuned to the vagaries of running. He is alert to the blind-side tackles, looks for blockers, for holes opening up, has the field of action more in front of him so that he can gird his body better for crashes, fall easier, protect himself better... he can even head for the sidelines or just fall down if he sees a bevy of bone-crunchers moving in on him. And, of course, a moving target is always more difficult to hit squarely than a stationary body.

WE CAN'T UNDERSTAND the furor over the new NCAA ruling which will allow freshmen to play all varsity sports at the university level. Many smaller leagues have been following the practice for a long time—including the Far Western Conference, of which San Francisco State is a member—without any apparent adverse affects. As a matter of fact, it has been a boon to smaller colleges, who have been able to use it as a recruiting gimmick to borderline university athletes, therefore building extra deep talent into their rosters.

One of the major complaints among dissidents is that the freshman year in a big university is traumatic experience enough as it is for many kids, and that it may be too much to handle for those who are athletes, on top of it, to compete at the varsity level.

Might we remind those dissidents that there is no rule that says the freshman athlete MUST play in his first year. There is now merely a provision which says he MAY play varsity. If the kid is of the kind of personality who can't handle such a situation, he should simply be dropped from the varsity roster.

And we might add that many of those kids who can't cut it at the varsity level in combination with university studies, perhaps don't belong on that scene to begin with. If varsity coaches are really so altruistic, they should send such hard pressed kids to the smaller colleges, where they might be better able to handle both the varsity and the studies.

Not only are there too many kids in college these days that don't belong there at all, intellectually, psychologically or socially, but there are certainly too many athletes who don't belong at the university level—if not physically then certainly mentally.

In other words, it is at that level of athletic and scholastic competition that the men are separated from the boys, and as big a cliché as that is, it does exist, and so be it.

PLAYING THE "TURNING POINT" game can be boring, but if there was one which launched the Warriors into that big winning streak it was when Al Attles benched Fritz Williams and began starting Jim Barnett.

Williams just makes too many mistakes, and his occasional brilliant flashes aren't compensation enough. Notice how Warrior turnovers have diminished since Williams has been used as a spot player, which is probably his best role, turning him loose when it appears he may have a hot hand.

Attles, as a good coach should, makes excuses for Williams, the prime one being that the recent death of his father has greatly upset him. We can certainly understand that, but Williams' father, to be blunt, hadn't been dying for three years.

While we're on pro basketball, Terra Nova varsity basketball coach Bud Bresnahan, while admitting the greatness of Jerry West, says he gets just a little bit tired of hearing West called "Mr. Clutch" indeterminately every time he sinks a last-second game-winning bucket, as he did in the All-Star game.

"I don't deny that West does rise to the occasion when the pressure is greatest, but I think the pressure of a last-second shot, especially in a tie game, when if it doesn't go in, the game still isn't lost, is over-rated. I would think that on such a shot West would be more relaxed than usual. As I said, in a tie game, if he misses, he still gets a crack at them in overtime, anyway.

Falcons Take First Victory

Crestmoor found rare joy by dropping San Mateo to sole possession of the cellar with a 55-43 win. And for Crestmoor coach Pete Pontacq there was an added bonus, the performance of his 6-8 center, Emmett McCourt, Wednesday.

"It was Emmett's best game to date," said the elated Pontacq. "He is improving every time he take the court."

The praise was more than due as the big Falcon pivotman garnered 20 rebounds and shared game high point honors with teammate Chris Svedise and Bearcat Larry Giffin.

McCourt was brutally efficient (from the Bearcat point of view); his height and muscle on the boards were too much for San Mateo to cope with.

For the Bearcats, who have lost three straight MPL encounters, it was driving forward Larry Giffin whose hot hand kept San Mateo within striking distance until the Falcons re-deployed in zone. Before the changeover Giffin drove with ease.

Crestmoor fought off sagging man to man and zone defenses (both designed to stop the big play inside) and took a 29-24 advantage into the locker room at halftime.

The Cats came out running in the third quarter and made a battle of it. Ryan Paton, Wayne Eitel and Jack Lindsey hit for quick points and forced a 32-all tie. But Giffin and Paton were in foul trouble.

Paton fouled out trying to stop McCourt and Giffin cooled his heels on the bench for a while. Meanwhile, the Falcons were running off 13 straight points to take a commanding lead.

And when Paton left, so did most of San Mateo's board strength. Crestmoor had little trouble thereafter.

It was the first Falcon victory in four league starts. They are improving steadily after a nightmarish battle with illness and injury (forward Jira Jarvis is still out with a bum ankle).

They have a front line almost tall enough to challenge Mills, but they lack a good outside percentage shooter. When George Ama is hot from the guard spot McCourt's work underneath is balanced. But Ama has been plagued by illness and consequent inconsistency.

That was the overall story for San Mateo again—inconsistency. And the lack of outside shooting. The Bearcats are forced to fire from outside when they run into a zone. It isn't a good percentage shot for them. And they don't have the board strength to recover.

But four of the five starting Bearcats are juniors, and they can at least view the season as a learning experience.

Falcon Matmen Prove a Point

By DAN BERTELOTTI

Crestmoor beat Hillsdale easily, 39-21, on Friday; Hillsdale is the only team other than San Mateo given even an outside shot at the powerhouse Falcons.

In other action, Mills got its first win of the season, 46-16, at Aragon's expense and Burlingame moved into a fourth place tie by trouncing Capuchino, 47-18.

According to Falcon coach Chuck Kent, Doug D'Anna and Rick Wise, who both pinned their men, turned in fine performances. Kevin Ruane, Bruce Stevens and Bob Littlefield all won decisions for Crestmoor. Littlefield had more trouble than expected, but still came out on top.

The Knights got most of their points from Gary Stewart, who won a decision in the 133s, and Joe Mota, who did the same in 145s.

Burlingame had some fine individual performances in its win over Cap. Dan Irons had a tough time in the 122s but came out to beat the Tangs' Tony Cecil.

Bob Mennis raised his pinning streak to seven in dual meets. Craig Erickson won a decision in 191s and in the unlimited class, the Panthers' Dan Eisan drew with Cap's John Copello. Neither Eisan nor Copello could take the other down for the win.

About the only bright spot for Aragon was the walkaway win by Mark Chorpene in the 165s. Mills got quick pins from Mike Marcus (0:44) and Gary Bei (0:50).

The powerful Crestmoor High wrestling team continued Wednesday to crash toward a Febuary showdown with San Mateo.

The Falcon grapplers stayed unbeaten with a decisive win over host Mills. Dennis Ostini, Steve Cook and Kevin Ruane were among the host of Falcons who recorded impressive pins.

San Mateo took on the Westmoor Rams Wednesday afternoon and tromped them thoroughly, 48-18.

Russ Minow started the meet off right with a pin and then Mike Harney followed with the same in the 105s.

Also registering pins were Charley Simon (129's), Dan Howry (147's), Dale Curry (191's) and Jim Grimsley (unlimited).

In dual meets Gary Stanton, Curry, Simon, Minow and Harney all remain undefeated.

Over the weekend San Mateo participated in the Del Mar Tourney held in San Jose. In that tourney, the 'Cats tied for third with 46 points, their highest finish of all time.

Harney placed third in the 105's, Dave Bryant fourth in the 154's, Pete Yamashita third in the 167's, Simon fourth in the 129's and Curry first in the 191's.

Curry put on a phenomenal performance in the four matches that he participated in and won. All were pins and one almost broke the record for the quickest pin in the tourney. Needless to say, Curry had to be the MVP of the tournament.

Wrong. The officials gave the honor to another wrestler who also won four matches but had no pins. But he was a defending state champion.

Burlingame got an impressive non-league win over South San Francisco Wednesday. Panthe Bob Mennis continued his pinning ways — he now has six straight in dual meets.

The feature match was in the 191's, between Panther standout Craig Erickson and previously undefeated Bob Ghilardi.

Adult 3-Man Hunch League

The Open Division of the 3-Man Hunch Basketball season got off to a roaring start as two great games were played at the War Memorial Community Center and each game was decided by only 4 points.

The league is sponsored by the Daly City Recreation Division and all games are played Monday evenings at the War Memorial Community Center.

In the first game the Conn Men defeated the Half Pints in a closely fought contest 40-36. Bob Aurigema had 10 and Jim Steve Murphy led the Conn men's attack with 18 big points.

Conn had 8 points for the winners. Bill King with 14 and Ted Clattier who scored 10 points led the Half Pints scoring and kept them in the game all of the way.

In other action, The Soul Shots led by leapin' Larry Peoples and jumping Joe Skaar downed a tough U.S. Keds team by the final score of 43-39. Peoples with 16 and Skaar with 12 kept the offense moving for the winners. Frank Oross with 16 and Mike Parodi with 14 kept the heat on the Soul Shots throughout the game.

The Under 6-Foot Division began the winter 3 Man Hunch League with eight teams determined to win the crown.

The Netter's led by the Reitz Brother's Rich and Roy defeated a good Gator's team by a final score of 41-19. Rich and Roy scored 19 and 12 points respectively for the winners and they were complimented by two other outstanding players Lee Attabit and Dennis Flannery, who contributed 6 and 4 points to the Netter's totals. Frank Oross with 12 led the Gator's scoring in this losing tilt.

The Lucky Six continues to roll over opponents in this league. They went undefeated in the first half and don't show any signs of weakness. This week they scalped the Chiefs 40-22. Norman Jang and Manfred led the Lucky 6 offense with 14 and 10 points. Frank Ng scored 8 and Joe Skaar 6 to contribute to the Lucky Sixes totals. Charlie Berthold led the charge of the Chiefs with 15 points but this wasn't enough to overcome the great team play of the Lucky 6.

The Pedroni A.C. team got off on a winning note in the opening nights action by defeating the Sixers 40-21. Everything Randy Fitzgerald threw up went through the hoop for the winners. Fitzgerald ended the game with 24 big points. Art Lande contributed 15 points and played a great game for the Sixers. The Bulldogs with great scoring balance downed the S.B. Cavaliers in the closest game of the evening by final scoring of 40-34. Steve Jones with 16. Alo Castano 14 and Bill Jones with 10 kept the Cavaliers from concentrating on any one member of the team as they all scored in double figures. Barket Kuenn kept the Cavaliers in the contest as he contributed 10 big points. He was closely followed by fellow teammates; Dave Martinez 9, Mike Klotovich 8 and Tim Bailey with 7 points.

Tammaro Can Produce When Under Pressure

Vince Tammaro will never get any awards for finesse, poetic moves, or gentleness under the basket.

But he's a guy who can produce under pressure, and as Serra High basketball coach Dave Stevens will readily admit after Friday's 52-51 squeaker over host Mitty in Santa Clara, that's the most desirable asset any player can have.

For it was a short jumper by Tammaro with just nine seconds left that gave the Pads their come-from-behind win, upping their WCAL record to 2-3 and their season log to 8-8.

After trailing for almost the whole last quarter, Serra closed to within 51-50 on a spectacular driving basket by Jay Keirnan

UNDER 8's: Westlakers 0, Grasshoppers 1

Contrary to the score, the Westlakers dominated field play throughout and kept the Grasshoppers penned in their own half most of the time, directing a multitude of kicks at the Grasshoppers' goal. On a couple of occasions, they had the goalie beaten but still couldn't manage that decisive shot. The only goal was scored by the Grasshoppers midway through the second half when the defense was caught napping and a surprise shot went out of reach of goalie Joe Condon.

For the Westlakers, first string goalie Jason Bruni still has not been scored on. Jeff Glosser and Francois Martin moved the ball well at forward while Craig Weisenburger, Francisco Romero, Ransom Massiglia, Forrest Gingold, Tom Beal and Mitch Rosetti are catching up in skill with their more experienced teammates. Player for player, the Westlakers are the strongest team in the league. If they learn to press less and draw their opponents defense out of the backfield with accurate passing, they will score heavily.

UNDER 10's: Westlakers "A" 1, Saints 0

UNDER 12's: Westlakers 0, Celtics 2

The Celtics attacked continuously during the first half while the Westlakers' defense held steady and tired out the Celtics forwards. However, the Celtics scored once. In the second half, it was the Westlakers who attacked constantly but did not with barely over a minute left.

Mitty worked the clock down to 22 seconds, missed a shot, and the Pads Tom McVeigh grabbed the rebound.

Serra came down, whipped a pass to Tammaro at the top of the lane, who wheeled and hit the pressured ten-footer.

Mitty could only manage a desperation 20-footer with two seconds left against superb Padre defense, and McVeigh grabbed the carom and dribbled out the remaining time.

Despite going against a Monarch front-line that featured a 6-7 center and a 6-5 forward, Serra actually dominated play under the basket. The Pads finished with 49 team rebounds, including 18 by Tammaro and 10 by McVeigh.

yet possess that cohesion to also played well. The Westlakers make pass patterns decisive. And momentary decisions by the Westlakers' goalie permitted the Celtics to score a second time. Outstanding for the Westlakers were Jeff Moon at full-back with strong clearance kicks, Greg Miller — a tiger at intercepting the Celtics' clearance kicks, Greg Millar — a tiger at intercepting the Celtics' passes and setting up his own men. Keith Rucker with great speed and ball control getting the forwards on the move. Ron Quinol at right wing very fast and determined. Pedro Dapello phins 4

The Westlakers with ten men only held defensively in the first half allowing only one goal but tired in the second half. Outstanding were the two wing-halves—Louis Navarro on the right, Antonio Cruz on the left. They continuously brought their wings forward back into play and showed stamina in carrying the ball out of their half of the field.

Shrine Goes to Skyline

Nettle, San Mateo Junior College District trustees; Clifford G. Erickson, chancellor-superintendent; Phil Garlington, Sr., Skyline president; Steve Marsh of San Bruno, Fall, 1971, Skyline Associated Students president; and Roberto Albanese of Pacifica, Spring 1972 student president.

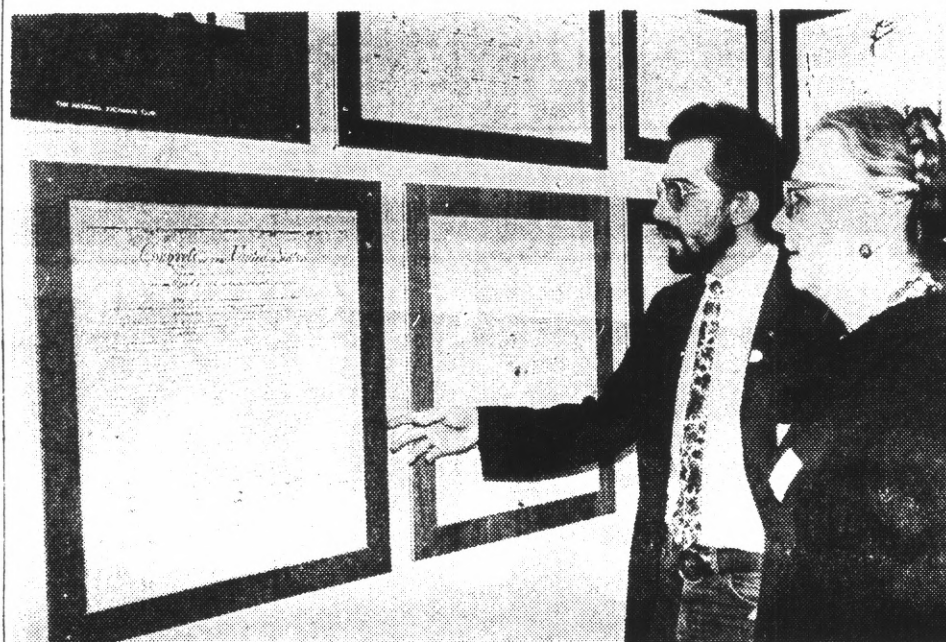

Kane said the country's "state of health of our freedom" has been neglected.

"The intrinsic values which are so eloquently portrayed in these 28 documents have been allowed to degenerate due to apathy and neglect," the jurist said.

Americans, he said, have become so consumed by personal pleasures and concerns that they have lost sight of the national spirit, which he described as a willingness to sacrifice personal grandeur for the good of society in general.

He said the national spirit embraces the concepts of duty, honor, patriotism, respect for authority, obedience, discipline and devotion to God.

"And when these concepts are held to be 'outmoded' or 'irrelevant' the national as well as the individual spirit will be undergoing crisis," he said. Kane urged his audience to be "alert to maintain our priceless American heritage."

"We have become so absorbed in the selfish clamor for expansion of personal, or so-called individual rights that we have — for all practical purposes — obliterated the concept of the public good, a concept considered paramount by our founding fathers," Kane said. "Truth has been abandoned as a result of 'this reckless pursuit,'" he added.

"With our society divided by war, inflamed by racial conflict, bedeviled by the alienation and disaffection of its youth, beset by inflation, afflicted with contaminated air and polluted waters, racked by fear and foreboding, we must either recognize that we are in a crisis of the national spirit or accept the alternative," Kane said.

He said he saw the alternative as disorder, decadence, irrationality.

Nonetheless, Kane said, he did not consider his message one of gloom, for, he said, "I firmly believe that in this great country of over 200-million people the overwhelming number are not incurably afflicted with this malady. On the contrary, most of us have not noticed the symptoms yet — and that is where the danger lies."

There is too much negativity in American today, he charged.

"The truly great accomplishments of the people as a nation are buried under a seemingly endless garbage dump of negative criticism," Kane said.

But, the "malady can be overcome by simple re-dedication to our national heritage," he said.

He said the documents in the Freedom Shrine — one of several in San Mateo County — "Prove that the lovers of freedom have never been lacking in these qualities."

Kane said he saw the documents as a "sample of the brave, noble and profound ideas which have found continual expression throughout our history."

Hopefully, he said, the documents will be well read by those using the facilities at Skyline.

"This is the worthy purpose of the Freedom Shrines, he said, 'that Americans everywhere may come into closer, more familiar contact with the ideals and precepts on which our country was established and through which it lives and grows.'"

If this can happen, Kane declared, "our national spirit will be rekindled."

Le Pacini Obligation Of Sorts

But even if a miss causes a loss right then, it's a case of his — the shooter — having everything to gain and nothing to lose. People really don't expect any shooter to make such a so-called pressure shot, but if the shooter does make it, he's a hero.

"I would imagine that players like West have more pressure on them often earlier in a game; for instance, when they have a set-up that the fans and the bench figure is a cinch — and they blow it!"

Whether he shoots under genuine pressure or not, West is still a remarkable player. At age 33 he's adjusted to coach Bill Sharman's running game, and is not only still scoring well, but has added the relatively new dimension of play-maker to his game. Or haven't you noticed that he's been leading the NBA all season with an average of about ten assists per game.

Have you also noticed that, for the first time since we can remember, the Warriors' Jeff Mullins has consistently cracked the NBA Top Ten list in assists, averaging about 5-6 a game? That's because Cazzie Russell has eased some of the scoring responsibility from Mullins' shoulders. And yet Jeff is still averaging about 20 a game.

And finally, also note that the Warriors are the only team in the NBA with two men among the Top Ten rebounders. Nate Thurmond and Clyde Lee, of course.

Bruno Business Leader Honored

Chamber of Commerce installations often tend to be routine affairs — but not the San Bruno Chamber's annual dinner.

In a presentation that was a surprise to nearly everyone, retiring President Don Risso presented a plaque to Josh Maule Jr. for his 50th anniversary in business in San Bruno. Risso also noted that Maule, owner of Maule's Drugs, was the first president of the San Bruno Chamber of Commerce, back in 1921.

Another highlight came when Risso presented a certificate to Mrs. Lois Brockway, who for nearly a quarter century has greeted virtually every new resident of the City of San Bruno, as well as presenting them with Chamber of Commerce materials. She was named the first life member of the San Bruno Chamber of Commerce.

Taking part in the affair — held at the San Francisco Airport's Hilton Inn — was a record attendance of 130 guests, who dined on a pepper steak dinner topped by a spectacular flaming baked Alaska.

Risso recalled a year that appeared to be successful by every standard. The Chamber's membership drive was a resounding success, the Chamber produced a history of San Bruno, and they helped lower the tax rate by urging all taxing agencies to cut the rate to compensate for the increased assessed valuations.

In addition, the Chamber backed the successful college bond election, and formulated a new consumer complaint system, whose details will soon be publicly disclosed. Finally, his administration succeeded in hiring a new chamber manager —

Gerald Chandler.

During this time, the City of San Bruno likewise has seen spectacular growth, topped by completion of half of Tanforan Regional Shopping Center. For six consecutive quarters, he noted, San Bruno has recorded an increase in taxable retail sales.

Installing officer was San Bruno's new city manager, Gerald D. Minford. In his address, he noted that there is a world of difference between a merely "good city" and a really "great city."

Minford installed Bill Wilson as new president; Larry Mobley as vice president, and Harvey Brenner as treasurer. New directors will be: John Clinton, Harry Costa, James Faverman, Earl Lopez, Joshua Maule III, Lance Miller, Larry Mobley and Paul Vogel.

Hongisto Raps Jail Near Bruno

San Francisco Sheriff Richard Hongisto, inspecting the county jail near San Bruno, has labelled it "disgusting, filthy, illegal and a negative influence on its inmates."

"If jails should exist in any way whatsoever to reduce crime or make the streets safe for people, this jail is not doing the job at all," the new sheriff told newsmen on the tour.

At San Bruno, he pointed to leaking overhead sewer pipes, torn mattresses, chewed up concrete floors and what he called inadequate medical and dental care for the 650 inmates in the six story block-like building.

Hongisto said he would seek enough budget money later this week to improve the 36-year-old jail.

Juvenile Stats Noted

Statistics released by the South San Francisco police department reveal that 801 youths were referred to by that department to juvenile authorities during 1971.

The ages of those referred ranged from eight to and including 17-year-olds, with those aged 16 having the most referrals, with 203. They were closely followed by the 17-year-old bracket with 173 and then 15-year-olds with 146.

According to Juvenile Officer Ron Petrocchi, these statistics concern cases closed by arrest. There are unsolved cases still being investigated, which Petrocchi indicates could well be committed by juveniles, and if so, could raise the percentage of crimes committed by juveniles from 32.8 to 50 per cent.

S.S.F. Marina A Camper Storage Area

South San Francisco's marina could possibly become a camper unit storage area as well as a boat harbor.

This at least is an area suggested by Councilman Warren Steinkamp as a place the city might store residents' camper units for a small fee.

The suggestion came after a long discussion last week in which the councilmen turned down a request for an ordinance, amendment authorizing camper units to be stored on driveways. The request was made by Charles W. Hamilton, of 2685 Leix Way, who said he wanted to take a camper off his pickup truck so he could park the truck in the garage.

According to Hamilton, the truck, which is a 1969 model, has been rusting severely while being parked outside. "I put my finger through the fender," he said.

Police Chief Sal Rosano recommended against parking the camper units on the driveway.

CRESTMOR GRAD

SAN ANTONIO — Airman Michael G. Counts son of Mrs. Rachelle Polzoni of 1070 Harbor Blvd., Belmont, has completed basic training at Lackland AFB, Tex. He has been assigned to Chantute AFB, for training as a fire protection specialist. Airman Counts is a 1970 graduate of Crestmoor High School, San Bruno.

Correction

That experimental parallel parking arrangement for South San Francisco's downtown Grand Avenue is for a period of 180 days, not 18 days as was inadvertently reported last week.

Court Cases Moved Up

Two North County Municipal Court cases have been ordered moved up to Superior Court in Redwood City.

The case of Billy Huddleston, 35, of 1094 Hillside, Broadmoor, charged in the death of Socorro Gomez, 27, of Daly City, is set for Thursday.

Huddleston is being charged with involuntary manslaughter. According to police reports, Huddleston and Gomez got into an altercation at a Broadmoor bar on Thanksgiving Day and Huddleston subsequently struck Gomez who fell down. He died two days later of skull fracture.

The other case involves two of three young men arrested for suspicion of burglary by San Bruno police, who caught the suspects by listening in on a walkie-talkie conversation.

The two are Jack Jay Livermore, 18, and Steven Craig Rink, 19, both of Redwood City. The pair waived their preliminary hearing and the matter was set for Superior Court in Redwood City for trial on February 11. Both are on $1,000 bail.

The third suspect, Alan Carl Coppola, 24, of San Mateo, is still proceeding through the preliminary process at the Municipal Court level.

Civic Leader Is Attorney

James M. Himmel, 57, 320 La Prenda Avenue, Millbrae, has become an attorney after 30 years as an engineer.

Himmel, father of five, and a resident of Millbrae for 25 years, was known up and down the Peninsula for his active participation in various citizens groups until a few years ago.

Since taking a vocal leadership in Millbrae's anti-high rise movement of a few years ago, however, Himmel has dropped from the civic scene.

On January 5, the reason for his absence was revealed when Himmel was sworn in as a member of the State of California Bar Association.

Burglar

A 72-year-old South San Francisco woman prompted a would-be burglar to have a change of heart January 17.

Police said Lucille Flanagan awoke at about 10:15 p.m. to see a man standing in the doorway. She told him to "get out!" He dropped a television set and left, police said.

S.S.F. License

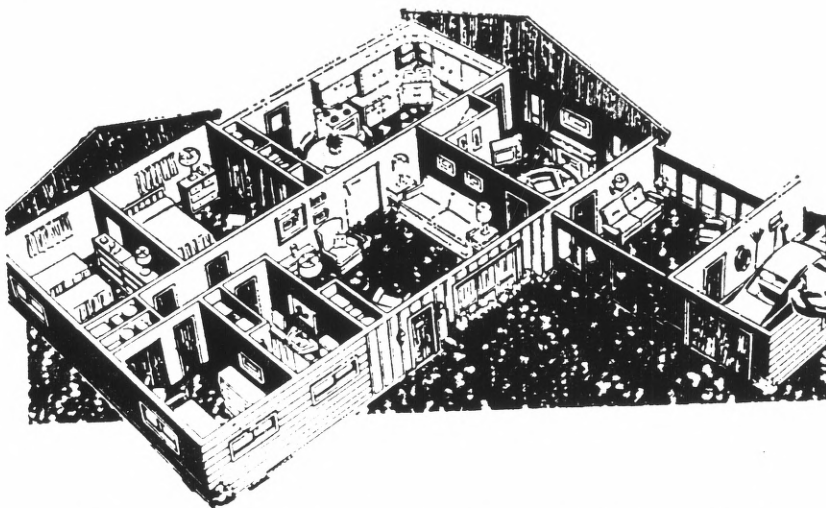

The South San Francisco ordinance to establish a $2 license fee for bicycle owners as a protective measure has been introduced. The fee will offset administrative costs of the program.

Millbrae Home Slides May Become U.S. Test Case

A handful of hillside homes in Millbrae whose underpinnings have slipped away in repeated mudslides, may become the foundation for the nation's first "test case" on federally guaranteed flood and mudslide insurance.

Twenty Millbrae citizens happily signed up last year when the federally guaranteed insurance was made available in Millbrae, by the simple act of the city declaring itself a disaster area.

They said the insurance would be carried through a regular insurance company, but that it would be underwritten by the federal government so that insurance premiums would not be priced out of sight.

At that time, state and federal spokesmen outlined the program, an effort of the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development.

The government spokesmen said the insurance would cover any "future" damage to mudslide area homes, no matter what damage might already exist.

Last week, councilmen learned that one local homeowner has had a "claim denied" ruling from the insurance company even though she has not submitted a claim, but only a request for clarification of certain details.

Two other residents whose homes have gone slipping downhill, have submitted claims, and have been denied insurance coverage.

Basis for all three denials, the Council was told, was that previous damage existed.

Jan Warnhuis, coordinator of the insurance program in California's Department of Water Resources, last night said it was clearly his understanding that the insurance should cover any damage resulting after its effective date.

The insurance carrier, he said, does not have the choice of deciding whether coverage should or should not be applied.

"I think this is a critical matter," said City Administrator Richard Watson, "the only people not in agreement" on the point of pre-existing damage, "are the claim supervisors" of the insurance companies.

He asked that any local citizens with problems related to the flood and mudslide insurance, contact him.

"I don't feel that any program, to be effective, should require citizens to fight for their benefits," he said.

Not only should the insurance cover "future" damage to homes already suffering from sliding foundations, but the insurance can be increased at any time, he said, to cover contents, as well as structure.

Warnhuis said he would be talking to the program's administrator in Washington, and would be in touch with City Administrator Watson.

Councilmen asked what the city could do to aid its citizens, and promised whatever assistance can legally be provided.

They commended the Mills High School Sierra Club for a successful program of gathering and sorting recyclable materials.

Council members agreed to ask for federal funds to develop hiking trails through the city's "spur" property, even though plans for the area are not yet finished.

The Council approved a $52,340 park development program.

to be financed with money borrowed from the hotel-motel tax fund. This will be tied in with the upcoming capital improvements plan, they said, which must first be cleared through the planning commission.

Administrator Watson said he would be presenting a capital improvements slide show, so that Councilmen and citizens could view the proposed developments on which money will be spent during the next six years.

Bruno Mount Plan OK

A sphere of influence decision on San Bruno Mountain by the Local Agency Formation Commission (LAFCO) is not objectionable to South San Francisco, with one proviso.

That stipulation is that no annexation of the mountain be made until further studies are completed concerning drainage, a park, highways and other factors that may affect the city.

The councilmen also requested that LAFCO do its own independent study on the environmental impact development of the mountain would have on the North County.

It was pointed out by Mrs. Bette Higgins, head of a citizen's group fighting the mountain's development, that such a study is authorized for funding by the county.

"They (LAFCO) are basing all their decisions on what the developers are offering in the way of studies," said Mrs. Higgins.

In a separate motion on urging by Mrs. Higgins, the councilmen reaffirmed the city's position of a need for a regional park on the mountain as per the Regional Planning Commission's master plan, specifically the saddle area.

Mrs. Higgins strongly emphasized the need that "exact location" of the park be outlined. She said her concern was that an effort is now afoot to alter the regional master plan to put the park in an area outside the saddle which could not be developed for any useful purpose by the developer.

"They will give us just any park to placate us," she said. "We've got to let them know South San Francisco is not the arm-pit of San Mateo county as was suggested Sunday in a (San Francisco) newspaper article."

Anti-Rat Campaign In Millbrae

Millbrae declared war on rats last week.

A spokesman for the county health department reported to the Council that Millbrae is suffering an infestation of "roof rats" which inhabit buildings and are frequently seen running along fences and even powerlines.

The rats, he said, seem to be coming from Burlingame residential areas.

Millbrae Councilmen voted to approve purchase of $440 worth of rat poison, which will be given free to any Millbrae citizen who wishes to call at the Fire Department and sign for it.

Mayor James O'Connor said, "We have two infestations of rats, along the Burlingame side, and along the north side of the city, next to San Bruno."

"We don't have a serious problem as yet, but we want to head them off."

"We want our citizens to know the rat bait will be available at our fire department."

Dirt Haul Unnecessary

Daly City contractor Ricco Lagomarsino won't have to haul away 1,500 tons of dirt dumped on his property at F and Steiner streets in Daly City after all.

The County Planning Commission ordered removal of the dirt after finding him in violation of the county grading ordinance.

Lagomarsino appealed to the supervisors, however, and Tuesday he and his attorney, R. L. Ariani, convinced the board that no grading had been done and that the dirt was simply building material being stored on the lot—a permitted use in an industrially zoned area.

The supervisors told Lagomarsino to apply to the Planning Commission for a use permit.

Plenty Of Action At Bay Meadows Year R'nd

Harness Racing continues to attract enthusiastic crowds to Bay Meadows during the Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Saturday day runs ("post out" at 1 p.m.), and Friday nights, which get under way at 7:45 p.m. Remember, the dining room and cocktail section is open from 6 p.m. on Friday evenings. Make up a party and plan for a night you will long remember. Night Harness Racing gets under way February 23, through March 4, followed by Quarter Horse racing at night from March 18 through June 3. Peninsulans don't have to leave home port to have fun — there's something doing at Bay Meadows the year round. . . . A satisfying variety of dishes is featured for luncheon and dinner at Vince's Italian and Seafood restaurant. Luncheon Specials are changed daily (Monday through Friday) and are served from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. Two Italian "house specialties" are Veal Scaloppini and Chicken Cacciatore. Both are served with a choice of spaghetti, ravioli, vegetable or potatoes. Seafood selections are numerous. . . . Ross MacKay, the popular Bay Area singer and guitarist, is making the cocktail lounge at the Shirl Tail in Palo Alto, a crowded fun place these evenings Tuesday through Saturdays. He entertains with tunes like "This Land Is My Land," popular classics, and sprinkling of "Top 40's." His show-stopper is an Elvis Presley number.

NEW HEADLINERS The Westwoods, a young band with a refreshing and contemporary approach to show business, provide the dance sounds nightly, Tuesday through Saturday, in the Deacon Brodie Lounge of the Royal Coach Motor Hotel in San Mateo. The group's lead vocalist is beautiful Melina Ellison, a talented songstress with an impressive list of club engagements to her credit.

Rodeway Inn Lobster Tank Added Attraction

Easterner Ted Downes, general manager of South San Francisco's Rodeway Inn, has brought more than just his distinctive accent to the West Coast. He's added a lobster tank to the Encore dining room, where you may choose from among several live Maine lobsters residing in the tank. . . . The menu at Scotty Campbell's is direct and uncomplicated. Specialties include prime rib (as you like it), steaks, chicken, seafood, and the entrees are of generous portions. Dinners include onion soup or tossed green salad (choice of dressing), stuffed baked or Idaho baked potato, and beverage. Quality of the cuisine has never gone under radical change here, which is welcomed by the countless diners who frequent this award-winning Redwood City restaurant. The courteous service would be difficult to surpass. . . . A bit of festivity occurred at A. Sabella's on San Francisco's Fisherman's Wharf. The occasion was a birthday celebration for Lucien Sabella, dapper owner of the famous restaurant. Turning out in full force were family, friends and business associates.

Chef Peter Selaya's Supervision

Few executive chefs spend as many working hours in the kitchen as The Shadows' Peter Selaya, who personally supervises the preparation of all the dishes and the quality of the soups. He's just one of many exceptional members on Dave Rasmussen's restaurant staff. . . . The New Southern restaurant, a Peninsula "foodmark" for more than 40 years, has many specialties, with such traditional deep South favorites as Baked ham, Southern Fried Chicken and Chicken and Dumplings. You will also find a wide selection of Continental dishes to appease your appetite. . . . Every menu item is cooked to perfection at the Ercoli brothers' elegant Leaning Tower in South San Francisco. Supervising the crew is Master Chef Ole Sorenson, who has been extensively trained in Europe. . . . A dazzling array of fresh seafood is listed on the menu at The Franciscan. Located in the heart of San Francisco's Fisherman's Wharf, this Bay-side restaurant is also known for its outstanding view. Many famous people drop by to dine, sip and chat with General Manager George Skaff and his son Richard, assistant manager. . . . Two excellent dishes are an indication of what to expect when enjoying dinner at Fabbro's in Redwood City — Veal Scaloppini, cooked in red wine and mushrooms, and Chicken Cacciatore. Also available are steaks, seafood and a variety of salads.

Now Try Toasted Ravioli

Toasted Ravioli is the new specialty at the Costa Brava restaurant in San Francisco. The luscious dish, which is deep fried and sprinkled with Parmesan cheese, then toasted under a broiler, is from a recipe that co-owner Art Polizzi brought back with him on his recent trip to the Midwest. Luncheons and dinners are always in full swing with the "in" crowd, and its popularity has spilled over to the banquet rooms. . . . Susan Mazer, internationally acclaimed harpist, entertains Tuesday through Saturday in the Albys Hall at the Ben Jonson restaurant in The Cannery, San Francisco. This versatile artist, who can play everything from Bach to Bacharach, holds a Master of Arts in Music from Stanford University, and has performed with Detroit Symphony Orchestra and the English Royal Ballet. . . . Pino Frandti, a member of the blending crew at Ken Parrett's Red Cottage in Menlo Park, more or less grew up in the restaurant-business, Frandti, who once owned a small "mom and pop" type establishment at Pier 29 in San Francisco, has been offering good drinks and sound advice to Red Cottage patrons for the past eight years.

PROGRESS ON HARRAH'S HOTEL — The first phase of Harrah's new luxury 18-story hotel on the South Shore of Lake Tahoe is close to completion. A three-level, 450-car garage will be open for operation "hopefully sometime in January, weather permitting," it was announced by George Gilgert, vice president and general manager of Harrah's Lake Tahoe operation. Site of the structure will be just north of the present casino and theater-restaurant, and will adjoin the existing facility by additional casino space and hotel lobby area.

Chuck's Steak House Live Entertainment

A variety of live entertainment can be found nightly in the intimate lounge of Chuck's Steak House. Featured on Friday nights is Linda Allen, guitarist and folk singer. Since Miss Allen's father was a serviceman, she is a very well-traveled young lady, having lived in Washington, Texas, Colorado and Turkey. She has a college degree in education, but taught for only six months. . . . Bertolucci's in South San Francisco draws celebrities like a magnet. Lunching here recently was a top executive from Columbia Pictures, who flew in from Rome for a one-day business conference. He just couldn't miss Mamma Bertolucci's Cannelloni. Another recent visitor, and very well known on the local scene, was Don Althoff, Ernie's Liquors president, who entertained representatives from a Kentucky distillery. . . . Bruce Fox is the new pianist in the Lancer Lounge at Holiday Inn, South San Francisco. Bruce, whose father was a preacher, has been a musician for more years than he cares to remember. He has performed in 16 Holiday Inns throughout the country. . . . La Cigogne's chef Fernand Wagner seems to excel on almost everything, including tasty hors d'oeuvres. His Kiche Lorraine has been called a wonder by more than one food expert. Since it does take considerable time to prepare, it's best to order it when making reservations.

BRIGHT LIGHTS BY LLOYD JOHNSON

Prince of Wales English Pub to Perfection

Ken Gilley of the Prince of Wales is an expert when it comes to knowing what an authentic English pub should be. Ken went to England with the Canadian Army in 1940, and ended up staying there for over 17 years. "During that time," said Ken smilingly, "I had occasion to frequent a pub or two." The San Mateo restaurateur also owns The Olde Bull & Bush in San Francisco. . . . Afterglow, the excellent band currently showcased at Deejay's in Belmont, has been the subject of lavish praise by the lounge's many patrons. It's quite obvious that the club regulars are passing these good words on to their friends, as the rockin' nitery was SRO over the weekend. . . . Jimmy Allen, the new entertainer in the lounge of Stuart Anderson's Black Angus Steak House in San Mateo, is drawing incredible crowds, reports Manager Dave Rollo. He's young, handsome and multi-talented. He plays piano, organ and guitar, and also writes many of his own compositions. See and hear him in the plush lounge nightly, Tuesdays through Saturdays. . . . The Villa Hotel has one of the busiest catering departments on the Peninsula. As well it should be, since the banquet and meeting facilities are large and well appointed. You name the function, be it a wedding reception or executive luncheon, the competent catering crew can handle it.

CORDIAL HOST — Henri Lewin, executive vice president of Hilton Hotels, Corp., shows pretty cocktail waitress Nadja Skrivanova, in Henri's elegant room at the Top of the new Hilton Tower, in San Francisco, how many guests are improving the flavor of their favorite drinks: Suntory Royal, the ultra-smooth, sipping whiskey is the answer.

Park Ave. Tours' Daily Trips

Park Avenue Tours' daily "Turn-around" tours, via Greyhound Bus, to Barney's Club, South Lake Tahoe, are popular with folks who have limited vacation hours. This "quickie" to the gaming area provides fun and excitement for the family. For those planning an overnight trip, check with Park Avenue Tours (the Peninsula address is 1417 El Camino in San Mateo) on the special rates and cash refunds. . . . A recent ringsider at Finocchio's was Betsy van Furstenburg, of international society and stage fame. She laughed at the wacky antics of Jackie Phillips and Elton Paris, impressed by the beautiful production number, starring Lucien as "Hello, Dolly." The revue showcases some fine singing and dancing, excellent choreography, and startling wardrobes. . . . Bright Lights' "Congenial Host of the Week" award goes to handsome Andy Ardito, industrious general manager of the Lord Fletcher Inn in Atherton. You'll find him here every evening, welcoming diners and making certain everyone is being given the royal treatment. . . . Ever since the word got around that Lew Lehr's Steak House, in San Francisco's Marina district, is available for private parties and wedding receptions on Sundays and Mondays, Lew has been deluged with calls for reservations. The handsome restaurant, completely staffed from lounge to dining room is an ideal setting for parties of 80 to 125 persons.

Margie Remembers Faces

Clancy's organist, Margie Brandon, has the uncanny ability to remember names and faces, which helps her tremendously in the entertainment field. Many who drop in to see Margie after a long absence are astonished when she not only greets them by their first name but sings their favorite song. Besides her charm and personality, this is the one thing that gives you that "good feeling" when you visit "Little Miss Happiness," as Margie is locally known. . . . Cleveland Jones is appearing in the Red Fox Lounge of the Holiday Inn, Belmont. Judging from the opening night crowds, the band's engagement here is going to be a record breaker. Thursday night is always "Wallbanger" night in the plush lounge, and it's almost impossible to find a parking space in the spacious lot. . . . If you're out doing the town on a Friday or Saturday night and find that 2:30 a.m. is too early to start for home, head for The Band Stand in Redwood City. You'll find many other "nightowls" on the Peninsula already gathered here. On weekends, this club offers after hours entertainment, with live music and a complete breakfast menu.

San Bruno Gets Financial Aid for Safety Problems

By BOB PETERSON

San Bruno's police department has been assured receipt of $152,000 in grants to institute two separate traffic safety programs within the city.

Capt. Bill Cann said the grants will mean two additional sworn personnel for the department and one additional clerk.

The first project, which is a two-year pilot program, is for $124,000 and becomes effective February 1.

Under this project a new traffic division will be formulated. Sgt. Hugh Fraser has been promoted to lieutenant to head the new division.

As a direct result of Fraser's promotion, Detective Richard Reed has been moved into the sergeant's slot and Officer Jerome Canning will move into Reed's detective slot.

According to Captain Cann, the objective of the new division will be to develop a data collection and evaluation system for selective traffic enforcement.

Through this modern technique, which will utilize facilities of the Stanford Research Institute, an attempt will be made to reduce collisions and therefore injuries and deaths.

Captain Cann noted that over the last three years there has been a steady increase in the number of fatalities, non-injury and injury accidents.

The project is designed to evaluate both accident and enforcement data so as to ultimately determine the effectiveness of enforcement, said Captain Cann.

The second project becomes effective March 1. It is a traffic safety officer program that is similar to one now in operation in South San Francisco.

Officer John Potter will direct this $28,000 one year project, according to Captain Cann. The funding includes the purchase of video tape and other equipment. Potter, however, will report directly to Lt. Fraser, who is in charge of both new projects.

The purpose of this project is to promote a better education to the public of the problem of auto-bicycle and auto-pedestrian accidents. It will include education programs in the schools and the community.

Captain Cann said this particular project also would investigate the impact of the crime problem of stolen bicycles. One possibility, according to the captain, is to institute a licensing system in which a number, such as a parent's (or owner's) driver's license would be stamped on a bike. This would allow an instant check, such as is done with traffic warrants.

One method of passing information to the schools and the public has a distinct possibility, according to Captain Cann. That is the local cable television system. Other possible public information projects such as bicycle rodeos might be instituted, he said.

"If we can keep 100 accidents from happening over a one-year period which would have been 25 per cent injury and 75 per cent non-injury, we will have saved $125,000 in a combination of property damage and injury and deaths," said Captain Cann.

Both projects are funded completely by the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration through the California Office of Traffic Safety.

Driving Charge Set

Robert D. Dickow, 42, of 1006 Granada Drive, Pacifica, was arrested for drunk driving early on Tuesday, while heading south on the Bayshore Freeway—in his three axle diesel truck pulling a two axle trailer filled with beer, California Highway Patrolmen reported.

Officer John J. Diskon said he noticed Dickow's big truck weaving from lane to lane south of Holly Avenue in San Carlos around 3 a.m. At one point, Diskon reported Dickow's truck almost hit another semi that was passing him.

Jailors at the county jail in Redwood City described Dickow as "uncooperative" while being booked.

Anne and Bill Schumacher

Daly City Attorney Seeks Council Seat

Daly City attorney Bill Schumacher filed nomination papers for councilman in the April 11 election last week.

Schumacher, 34, was accompanied by his wife Anne at the City Hall filing.

A 13-year resident of Daly City, Schumacher says, "Our community is changing and expanding; our city government must reflect changing attitudes. We see the same old faces with the same old approaches."

"We need more community involvement, but see even less. The community affected has not been sufficiently represented in the redevelopment planning. The agency should include at least two community representatives."

"I also believe that the Cable TV system should be municipally owned and operated," Schumacher continued. "The city should use the revenue to reduce property taxes."

He has served as a policeman, prosecuting deputy district attorney, assistant city attorney, private defender, police science instructor and juvenile court referee.

The Schumachers reside at 16 St. James Court with their three children: Michael, 12; James, 9, and Diane, 5.

Profile

Mrs. Jaeger Is No Pacifica Stranger

Not new to Pacifica or its politics, council candidate Virginia Jaeger is campaigning on "truth in government."

The first to file nomination papers in that coastside city (the day after she took them out) Mrs. Jaeger said she intends "to let the people know what's going on."

She has been a resident of the community for sixteen years. She lists her occupation as "newspaper reporter." Mrs. Jaeger has written over the years for the San Mateo Times, Pacifica Tribune and Coastside Chronicle.

"We need some changes either in city staff or methods of the city's incorporation committee, serving in that post until 1966. In 1960 she served a short term on the parks, beach and recreation commission, and in 1968-69 she was a member of the city's beautification committee among other numerous activities."

MRS. VIRGINIA JAEGER ... A Pitch of 'Truth'

Sewer Hookup Okayed By Pacifica Council

Pacifica council members last night authorized a four-inch sewer line hookup of the Shamrock Ranch to the city's system in hopes of cleaning up pollution of Pedro Creek.

The hookup was initiated by ranch owner Truman F. Denman, who had been refused renewal of his kennel permit on objection by the County Health Department that the ranch's waste disposal system was unsanitary.

Pacifica also had a direct interest in the hookup because the current waste disposal system at the ranch increased the coliform counts in Pedro Creek.

Initial hookup cost Denman must pay the city is $11,600. He will then pay an annual sewer rate of $560, with the first payment due July 1. This figure may be increased, should the sewage flow increase.

City Attorney John Sherman assured council members this action would not set a precedent for a similar type agreement "on any other parcel that may be decided to be annexed to the city."

DONALD M. CAHEN, 1080 Helen Drive, Millbrae, is seeking election to the Millbrae City Council. A San Francisco attorney, Cahen is a former Millbrae Planning Commissioner.

Adobe Site

A renewed effort to pin down the county on the status of a new library on the Sanchez Adobe site in Pacifica was made Monday night by Councilman Stan Farber.

He suggested the city put in writing a request a report be made on the subject. "The county seems to have many priorities more important than Pacifica," said Farber.
